BRITAIN URGES ITALY TO AGREE TO PEACE

PREMIER-ELECT IS COMPLETING NEW CABINET

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin and Hon. F. Rinfret Join Prominent Leaders Conferring With Mr. King in Ottawa

New Ministry Before Next Week

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Two more former Liberal ministers arrived in Ottawa today to join those being consulted by Premier-elect King regarding formation of his cabinet. They are Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, M.P.-elect, former Minister of Marine, and Hon. Fernand Rinfret, M.P.-elect, former Secretary of State and former mayor of Montreal.

Hon. Charles Dunning, former Minister of Finance, who conferred with Mr. King yesterday, is still in Ottawa and will remain here for a few days. Hon. T. A. Gresser, former Minister of Railways, and Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior, also are here.

Hon. Ian MacKenzie of Vancouver, M.P.-elect, former Minister of Immigration, is expected to-morrow. Hon. J. C. Elliott, M.P.-elect, former Minister of Public Works, arrived today from London, Ont.

TAKING OATHS.
Friday or Saturday is expected to see the swearing in of the new government. Thursday will be Thanksgiving Day.

Premier Bennett intimated the Conservative government would be ready to resign after a cabinet meeting today.
Following a three-hour session of cabinet yesterday, Mr. Bennett said no action had been taken of the resignation tendered immediately after the election by Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States. It would be accepted, he said, effective on a date which would enable Mr. Herridge to conclude affairs of office in Washington.

Answer Expected On Beer and Wine

Government Decision on Local Petition Anticipated This Week; Plebiscite Said to Be Favored

A decision on the petition of the Moderation League seeking to have sale of beer and wine permitted in Victoria eating places will likely be reached by the provincial government this week. Premier Pattullo indicated this morning.

It had been planned to deal with the matter at a meeting of the cabinet this morning, but both Attorney-General Sloan and Hon. John Hart, Victoria's minister, were absent on the mainland. It was therefore laid over until the next cabinet meeting.

Local representatives of the Moderation League have been pressing for a government decision, as well as hotel and restaurant owners, many of whom plan extensions or renovation of their premises if the petition is granted.

There are four alternatives facing the government.

If the contention of Moderation League counsel is correct that an amendment to the existing liquor regulations giving beer and wine sale privileges to eating places would be legal, the change might be brought about by order-in-council.

The government may, on the other hand, wish to get a formal expression of opinion of the people by secret ballot, in which case a plebiscite in Victoria could be held.

Overpaid Taxes Being Returned

Taxpayers of the city of Victoria who more than met their levies during 1935, will receive refunds from the city's treasurer's department within the next few days. To-day the city comptroller-treasurer was signing cheques for 587 taxpayers who will get refunds amounting to a total of $5,855.66. The refunds vary from 11 cents to $133.20, but the majority run about $5 or $3.

ITALIAN GENERAL ON NORTH ETHIOPIAN FRONT

Gen. de Bono is said to have completed preparations for a new assault in an effort to push the Italian line in Northern Ethiopia forward.

People Return To Homes After Quakes At Helena, Montana

Scientists Say Series of Heavy Tremors Probably At End, But Part of Business Section Still Barred Off

Associated Press
Helena, Mont., Oct. 22.—Earthquake-shocked citizens of Montana's capital began returning to their homes today reassured by scientists the crashing shocks which wrecked houses and damaged business houses probably were at an end.

Hundreds who had been sleeping in their automobiles outside the city, in the streets beside their houses, returned to their homes today. Tents at the national guard camp, today ventured inside their dwellings, though minor tremors continued.

City authorities permitted resumption of business in the principal business section, though the older portion, where ancient store-fronts crashed in the two major jolts of the terrifying ten-day seismic period, was still barred from use.

Eighteen shocks registered since last midnight failed to diminish the determination of these descendants of pioneer stock to begin rehabilitation. In these they were assured of.

BEER DUMPED OUT INTO RIVER

Canadian Press
Windsor, Ont., Oct. 22.—Under supervision of government officials, thousands of gallons of beer, ale and porter, were dumped into the Detroit River at the Riverside brewing plant today.

POLICE HUNT FOR JOCKEY

W. Saunders of Calgary Wanted at Louisville, Ky., Where Woman Slain

Associated Press
Baltimore, Oct. 22.—"Whitey" Danenhauer, who came here with Willie Saunders, Calgary, Alta. jockey, sought for questioning in a Louisville slaying, was taken to police headquarters today for interrogation.

Meanwhile police reported they had found an automobile owned by Saunders in a downtown garage. The car was ordered held.

Associated Press
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—The jockey who rode Omaha to a thrilling victory in the 1935 Kentucky Derby, dapper little Willie "Smoky" Saunders of Calgary, today was named by Louisville police as one of two men they wanted to question about an after-the-party slaying of a young Louisville married woman.

The second man has not been identified. Police in Baltimore, where Saunders has gone to ride in races at Laurel Park, went to Saunders' hotel early today to question him, but the jockey had gone.

D. B. Headley, whose uncle, Hal Price Headley of Lexington, Ky., holds Saunders' riding contract, expressed the belief Saunders was on his way back to Louisville.

Headley, staying at another Baltimore hotel, said he had telephoned Saunders and advised him he was wanted for questioning on the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Siwinsky, twenty-four-year-old wife of a Louisville tailor, whose mangled body, crushed by automobile wheels, was found on a road early Sunday.

"I advised him to go back and see what it's all about," Headley said. "No, he didn't seem bothered about it."

Saunders and his booking agent, E. "Whitey" Danenhauer, arrived in Baltimore yesterday and registered at a hotel there.

Victoria Lady Has Yawned Six Weeks

Peculiar Ailment Baffles Doctors; She Yawns Even When Sleeping and Eating at Anywhere from Three to Twelve Times Each Minute.

A Victoria lady has been yawning for six weeks and her medical advisers do not know what to do about it. This lady is yawning even when she is sleeping and eating and it is a most exhausting affliction. She yawns from three to twelve times every minute and her longest respite has been half an hour.

Doctors who are attending the lady state that she has no organic disorders and they are at a loss to ascribe a cause for the yawning.

Last Sunday Mrs. Harold McKee of Round Grove, Illinois, was stated to have set a world's record for yawning when she had passed her nine-day mark. She had been yawning at the rate of eight to eleven times a minute. Only occasional periods of rest and ease were obtained for her by the use of sedatives. Mrs. McKee suffered a similar attack last year when she yawned nine days before she obtained relief.

RUM RUNNING AT LOW POINT

Associated Press
Washington, Oct. 22.—The coast guard today said that the government had succeeded in cutting alcohol smuggling to the lowest level since repeal.

Commander Stanley V. Parker, head of the coast guard intelligence office, said an intensive campaign against alcohol running by sea had chopped millions of dollars from the loss in customs duties and internal revenue taxes.

One Month For Truck Driver

Joe Hing, Chinese, Jailed For Failing to Return to Scene of Accident

Joe Hing, Chinese, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment by Magistrate Jay when he was convicted in the City Police Court this morning on a charge of failing to return to the scene of an accident to furnish information required by the Motor Vehicle Act.

The charge arose out of an accident at Flagstaff and Douglas Streets about 8:30 o'clock on the night of October 11 when Mrs. Winifred Longley, 711 King's Road, was knocked down and sustained chest, leg and back injuries which necessitated removal to the Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Longley and her husband, Clarence L. Longley, were chief prosecution witnesses. They testified they were walking south on the east side of Douglas Street, crossing Flagstaff when a truck driven by the accused struck them. Mr. Longley was thrown clear but his wife was knocked to the ground.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, Addressing British Commons, Declares Government Strongly Supports League and Suggests Eleventh-hour Opportunity Be Used to Bring Peace in Ethiopia; Issues at Stake, He Says, Much Greater Than Those in East Africa

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, Oct. 22.—Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, today told the House of Commons Great Britain plans no military action against Italy. He urged the short breathing spell before the application of economic sanctions against Mussolini's government be used in another attempt to peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The Foreign Secretary, addressing the Commons on its reassemblage, asked if an eleventh-hour chance could not be used to make unnecessary further progress along "the unattractive road of economic action against a fellow League member, an old friend and a former ally."

Sir Samuel stated Great Britain had never turned her back on a peaceful solution, adding:

"There is still breathing space before the economic pressure can be applied. Can it not be used for another attempt at such a settlement?"

The House was crowded and many diplomats sat in the gallery as the House began the brief session that will be followed by an early election.

"I do not know whether there is hope or not for what I am urging," said Sir Samuel. "I do, however, know that great issues are at stake, much greater than the local merits of the African controversy."

The whole future of European civilization, he asserted, was tied up in the present conflict, saying the British were praying "the principles of collective action now will be upheld and a way speedily found to end this hateful controversy."

Re-emphasizing the need of finding an honorable settlement "within the framework of the League," Sir Samuel stated that he had never adopted an extreme partisan attitude, declaring: "Indeed, I believe that outside Italy, I was the first public man to remind the world of Italy's claim for expansion and economic security."

RAW MATERIALS.
He said he had already pledged Great Britain to the investigation of colonial raw materials as a contribution to removing the causes of war and that he had not let a week pass without in some way expressing Great Britain's "readiness to take our share in bringing about an honorable settlement acceptable to all three."

Reported French Premier May Get More Promising Offer in Ethiopia

Paris, Oct. 22.—Premier Laval told his cabinet today of his efforts to negotiate peace between Italy and Ethiopia, and it was officially indicated the possibility of modifying Premier Mussolini's suggestions would be considered at a full dress ministerial council to-morrow.

To-day's cabinet session was largely devoted to France's own financial and political problems.

M. Laval was officially described as "a sort of buffer" between Great Britain and Italy, trying to induce Mussolini to modify his peace terms before submitting them to London.

POLICE HUNT FOR JOCKEY

Louisville police were informed Saunders, Danenhauer and a third man, known to acquaintances here only as "The Dago," left Louisville early Sunday morning in an automobile.

Officers were checking up to determine whether "The Dago" fitted the description of the second man they wanted in the case.

EVENTS DESCRIBED

The party that preceded the slaying was related to police by Mrs. Agatha Mackison, twenty-eight, who identified a photograph of Saunders as that of Mrs. Silivinski's companion on the Saturday night party.

Mrs. Mackison was quoted by Detective Capt. William A. Dietzen as saying she, Mrs. Silivinski, and two men she knew only as "Jimmy Smith" and "Tommy," met in a saloon and visited several nightclubs, "Jimmy" she identified from a photograph of Saunders, "Tommy" she said, spoke Italian.

"Jimmy" and Mrs. Silivinski quarreled, Mrs. Mackison's statement related, he knocked her down, and later resumed she quarrel in the car and ordered her out.

KNOCKED DOWN

"She walked around in front of the car," Mrs. Mackison's statement to police related, "Tommy," the man I was with, stepped on the gas and ran over Evelyn. We kept going for several miles and returned. As we came back, the car ran over her again. As I felt the wheels pass over her body I screamed.

"After we drove a little while longer they stopped and got out and inspected the car. I think they wiped the wheels. Then we started again. 'Jimmy' said: 'Step on it. I think the law's after us.' They took me to my home.

"Just remember this," they told me. "You ain't seen nothing, you ain't heard nothing, you don't know anything, and you're lucky you're alive."

Mrs. Mackison said she hesitated about telling police, because she was afraid she might be killed.

WAS AT HOTEL
Baltimore, Oct. 22.—While police in various sections of the east were searching for Jockey Willie Saunders in connection with a Louisville, Ky., slaying case, the Calgary rider-to-day was registered at a local hotel.

TRAINED IN CALGARY

Calgary, Oct. 22.—Willie "Smoky" Saunders, twenty-year-old Calgary jockey wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Silivinski in Louisville, Kentucky, started his track career here five years ago under Fred Johnston, Calgary owner.

From Calgary he went to San Francisco to join the stable of L. T. Whitehill. Later he became a free lancer and after a series of successes was signed by the William Woodward stable. He rode Omaha, a Woodward horse, to victory in the 1935 Kentucky Derby.

RIOTS AT TOWNS OF

The governor's car was smashed with those of a Supreme Court judge and the island's Attorney-General, and homes and stores were looted and wrecked before police guns subdued the infuriated mob.

The governor himself was humiliated by the mob in front of the courthouse and freed only after a promise to meet their representatives, who demanded a hearing on workmen's problems. The administration promised to receive representatives on questions of minimum wages, workmen's compensation and customs duties.

DISORDERS SPREAD
By the time the warship had arrived yesterday evening from nearby Grenada, the riot had spread from Kingstown into Georgetown and Chaguanai. Plantations along the road between the towns were looted as the shouting crowd milled along threatening the owners with sticks, stones and iron bars.

RESISTS ATTACK
Resistance was offered at only one plantation. Barricading himself in his home, Captain C. O. Hassell poured a volley of rifle fire into the mob. Beaten off, the rioters carried away a badly wounded comrade.

But they marched into the home of Justice C. C. Williams, robbed it and went on to smash into Attorney-General C. C. Rose's residence. Hon. F. A. Correa's home also was robbed, and several dry goods and grocery stores were wrecked after much stock had been carried off.

aid by the Red-Cross, which sent J. P. Seeley from California to take charge, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whose agents promised all possible aid to homeowners and businessmen whose property suffered in the major jolts of October 12 and 18.

COLD SPELL
Temperatures that dropped eight degrees below freezing and threatened a further slip also deterred to outdoor living. Additional heating facilities, however, had been provided for the 300 persons temporarily quartered on the militia grounds.

Although windows were broken and stocks battered, most business firms opened their doors for customers. Commissioner of Safety Amos M. Sheldahl lifted the ban on automobile traffic through part of the business section.

Sheldahl issued an order permitting reopening of the state liquor store and beer parlors, close since the Friday night shock which cost two lives and left heavy property damage in its wake.

NANAIMO MILL SITE CLARIFIED

Reservation on Foreshore
Lots Lifted; Way Is Cleared
For Project

Dispute as to title of certain foreshore lots adjacent to the site of the Dominion Government assembly wharf at Nanaimo was cleared up to-day when the provincial government lifted reservations on the lots and threw them open to the usual competitive staking.

These lots became a bitter last-minute point of contention in the federal election campaign in Nanaimo. The province had reserved the lots for the Dominion as part of the assembly wharf site but did not include in this reservation powers to lease to a third party. When certain interests proposed to lease them for purposes of a new lumber mill, the application had to be turned back to the provincial government.

The ensuing argument as to which government controlled the lots brought out charges and counter-charges of delaying the new industry. By lifting the reservation to-day, the government cleared the way for any company that wishes to apply for the foreshore rights and go ahead.

It was understood here that a lumber mill project is planned.

ITALIANS MAY

Italian suggestions have not yet been officially transmitted to London. It was indicated Great Britain consequently should refrain from taking the responsibility of rejecting the suggestions while Laval, acting on his own responsibility as mediator, tries to find a basis acceptable to the League of Nations and Ethiopia.

SHIP MOVEMENTS
Officials indicated France will refrain from following Great Britain in restricting the refueling of Italian ships which are laden with war materials at colonial ports, saying Djibouti, French Somaliland, lacks sufficient supplies and the Italian ports are too near for that particular problem to be raised.

HANGS IN BALANCE
Rome, Oct. 22.—(Associated Press).—An Anglo-Italian understanding necessary to secure the peace of Europe hung in the balance to-day.

A peaceful settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian conflict appeared dependent on further Italian victories to bring Emperor Haile Selassie to possible acceptance of whatever terms might be agreed on in European diplomatic negotiations.

Premier Mussolini calmly continued his preparations for "any eventualities" and waited for the British to show cause why he should withdraw his powerful army from Italy's North African possession of Libya, confronting Egypt.

Warmed sources said that including naval forces on the Libyan coast, Mussolini had more than 80,000 fighting men at his disposal in North Africa.

While Italy bolstered its position in North Africa, a government spokesman said nevertheless "there are grounds of belief" that this action was considering a recall of its troops there in exchange for withdrawal of some of the British reinforced fleet from the Mediterranean.

CLASHES ON

The Fascist forces in East Africa took the next objective the Italian-Ethiopian frontier—centre of Makale, about sixty miles southeast of Aduwa, it was believed no major clash could occur between Italian and Ethiopian troops on this northern front for some weeks.

SUPPLIES NEEDED
The Ethiopians were concentrated at Amba Alagi, fifty miles south of Makale. It would require considerable time for them to gather provisions, move up to Makale and encounter the Italians.

The total of Italian casualties thus far in the thrust which has advanced the Fascist columns from Eritrea to a line sixty miles deep in Ethiopia from Adigrat through Aduwa to Aksum, was estimated unofficially at eighty-seven dead and wounded.

TWO EXECUTED
Two Ethiopian soldiers taken prisoner died before a firing squad to-day after a revolver and other effects of Lieut. Mario Morgantini, the first Italian officer killed, were found in their possession, indicating they had robbed the body.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Correspondent
Addis Ababa, Oct. 22.—Eight thousand crack troops of Ethiopia's imperial guard marched off lightly armed to the northwest to-day to make Desale the nerve centre of Emperor Haile Selassie's line of defence against the Italians.

There, on the central plateau in the heart of the empire, the Ethiopians believe the Italian northern and southern armies plan to join for a fine drive against Addis Ababa.

The Emperor still awaited full reports of an Italian bombing along the Setit River on the northern front and captured by the Italian southern army of the Ethiopian posts of Dannessel and Sclavelli on the Webbe Shihel River.

As the 8,000 men of Ethiopia's only crack regiment took the Desale road, mothers and children bade farewell to the khaki-clad warriors from the summit of Mount Entoto.

RUGGED WARRIORS
Reared in rugged mountain land where only the most fit survive, Ethiopian soldiers undergo an existence which—whether in war or in peace—is one long battle against destiny.

The troops rival the Spartans of old in their privations and sacrifices. If wounded seriously, they died on the spot where they fall unless comrades rescue them from death or from the jackals and hyenas which prowled by night.

In camp, Ethiopian warriors sleep as many as seven to ten in a single tent. At the front, they sleep on the earth covered only by hides.

FORAGING ACTIVITIES
As the Ethiopian army has no commissary, one principal activity of the soldiers is foraging for food. They are assisted by their wives and servants, who follow the armies like hosts of locusts, stripping the countryside of all edibles.

The women help cook, care for the wounded, carry water and pitch tents and are often seen battling in the front lines.

"ALL QUIET"
Associated Press
Rome, Oct. 22.—All quiet on the Ethiopian war fronts was reported to-day by General Emilio de Bono, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies in East Africa.

Preparations for a new advance proceeded actively, however.

NO GAS USED
Addis Ababa, Oct. 22.—Emperor Haile Selassie declared to-day that, despite reports to the contrary abroad, the Italian army in its advance into Ethiopia had not, up to this date, used either poison gas or dum-dum bullets.

The Negus said the Italians had achieved little in so many weeks of operations, their occupation of Aduwa and the holy city of Aksum, he said, was like "armed marauders entering an empty, undefended house whose inhabitants had long since left on orders of the government in order to preserve from destruction."

"So far," he continued, "the Italians have had no outstanding success on any front; they have shown no special military genius or bravery and they have not attempted to engage even the outposts of our main forces, entrenched in the mountains, they probably know better because it is there they will meet their Waterloo."

Echoing the historic phrase, "they shall not pass," he said: "Those words are written on the hearts of our soldiers."

The Emperor indignantly rejected a suggestion he might negotiate with Mussolini for a peace on the basis of Italy retaining all the territory it now occupies in Ethiopia.

CHIEFS SURRENDER
Associated Press
Asmara, Eritrea, Oct. 22.—A number of Ethiopian chieftains beyond the present front line of the Italian army presented themselves to-day to the three northern headquarters at Adigrat, Esticchio and Aduwa and made their submission.

By these acts of allegiance, territory extending many miles beyond the area now held by the Fascist forces came under nominal Italian control.

CAMOUFLAGE FOR RAILWAY
By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Correspondent
Addis Ababa, Oct. 22.—The Ethiopian Government yesterday announced France was camouflaging the railroad between Djibouti, French Somaliland and the Ethiopian frontier for protection from Italian bombs.

An official government spokesman said the construction of subsidiary earth roads leading to the railway so armored cars and other equipment can be brought up quickly in the event of an attack from Italian military planes.

The French and British intend to impose their will on Italy in case sanctions are ineffective, the communiqué said.

Emperor Haile Selassie announced he had received several messages from Austrians in the Tyrol district of northern Italy wishing Ethiopia victory in its conflict with Italy.

CAMOUFLAGE FOR EMPEROR
Addis Ababa, Oct. 22.—(Associated Press).—A dummy official called "Likamokwas" will serve as a camouflage to protect Emperor Haile Selassie from danger when he goes to the front.

The ghost sovereign, whose full name is Likamokwas Haile Selassie, exactly like the emperor, wears a false beard and carries an imperial red umbrella in imitation of former kings who regarded a parasol as an indispensable adjunct to battle.

The emperor is intended to attract the attention of the enemy to Kokamokwas and to divert notice from the real emperor who dresses in plain raiment and occupies a protected position while the enemy is attacking.

Britain Urges Italy To Agree to Peace

parties—for there are three—not two—the League, Italy and Ethiopia.

POSITION OF DOMINION
Sir Samuel spoke of the solidarity of British support for the government of the League of Nations, which support limited to the United Kingdom alone. "Amidst all these baffling and dispiriting conditions the greatest source of comfort and encouragement to those of us who have been faced with them, has been the unbroken solidarity of the British empire, in particular the impressive unanimity of the great dominions," he said.

"Let those prophets of misfortune who marked down the empire for decay and dissolution, observe this fact of overwhelming importance. In one of the most critical situations that has faced us of this generation, representatives of the dominions, acting as co-equals, forming their own opinions for themselves, considering for themselves their own interests, their own obligations, have, it may be along different lines, reached the same conclusion that we reached, have once again shown to the world that in the dark moments of trial we and they have the same outlook upon the great principles of international conduct."

OTHERS SURPRISED
Some of Britain's foreign friends, Sir Samuel continued, had been surprised at the depth and breadth of these expressions of opinion.

"Because we refused in the past to place ourselves to definite action in hypothetical conditions they were wrongly convinced that our action would be indefinite in a clear and concrete case," he said.

"They did not realize the sincerity of our hope and faith in the order of international relations. They failed to understand our belief in the League as an instrument not only for stopping war but removing its causes. They under-rated our support of the League as an instrument of impartial comprehensive justice rather than an organization aimed against this or that country or this or that group of countries. They failed also to understand that most of us regard the League as a bridge between Great Britain and Europe and that in this bridge were gravely weakened or broken, co-operation between us and the continent would become difficult and dangerous. While clamoring for no miracles from the League, let us fairly recognize that it has never before shown such encouraging vitality."

"HATEFUL CONTROVERSIES"
It would have been easy for Great Britain to have disinterested herself in the Ethiopian controversy and to say to the world in such a case the covenant could not be applied at all. It would have been easy for Britain to extricate herself from the hateful controversies and flatter herself that in world sentiment "we were realists who were facing the facts of to-day, but in point of fact to say nothing of the moral obligations which bind us we should not have been realists at all if we had taken this line. Indeed it is those who take it who live in a world of dismal illusion."

FULL TEST NEEDED
The League could not be said to have failed until the provisions of the covenant had been effectively tested.

"We are presently engaging in trying them out and so far as the British Government is concerned we have been earnestly and sincerely trying to make them succeed," he said. "And we have been trying to make them succeed because we are convinced that if they fail the world at large, and Europe in particular, will be faced with a period of almost unrelieved danger and gloom. The attempt was made with such faith and fervor after the war to eliminate war as an instrument of national policy will have been successfully frustrated. The great endeavor to insure the inevitable failure to aggression will have been gravely compromised. The hope of a new and better world will have become remote. There was a cry on the continent early this century, 'World power or decline.' We say now, 'World peace or destruction.'"

These were the reasons, Sir Samuel declared, why the government had constantly tried to make the provisions of the covenant succeed.

WORLD PEACE IS AIM
"And these," he emphasized, "are the only reasons for the part we played at Geneva. No thought of imperial interest but the natural concern which a world-fung empire must have for the preservation of world-wide peace has entered our mind."

"Least of all have we regarded this controversy as an opportunity for attacking Fascism. Countries must settle for themselves their own forms of government. We have not the least intention of interfering with the domestic affairs of other peoples."

The British Empire, he said, was bound to have enemies and critics who were jealous of the British position, wanted to make trouble in Europe and to embroil us with our friends.

"It is such as these," he declared, "who are trying to make it appear Great Britain is attempting to use the League for selfish ends and is bent on mobilizing its machinery for the humiliation of Italy."

Such men, he declared, "are doing their best to kindle a conflagration in Europe and to destroy the League itself."

EFFORTS YEAR AGO
The Foreign Secretary was equally emphatic in his denial that Britain had been timid and slow to act. Beginning far back at the end of last year, he said, representations had been made and the government had never stopped warning Italy of the gravity of the issues involved.

"The House may take it from me that from the very moment this controversy started we have left the Italian government in no doubt whatever of our attitude," the Foreign Secretary declared.

In January the French and Italian governments had reached an agreement at Rome under which France disinterested herself economically in Ethiopia except for setting undertakings and except for a specific zone covering the French railway from Djibouti to Addis Ababa. On January 29 the Italian government brought this agreement informally to the notice of the British government and intimated it would be glad to exchange views with the United Kingdom concerning the mutual and harmonious development of British and Italian interests in Ethiopia.

FULLY CONSIDERED
It had been alleged in Italian circles, said Sir Samuel, that this invitation was ignored. Actually it was most seriously considered by a special committee set up to review the whole field of Anglo-Ethiopian relations. This investigation necessitated taking expert advice, and consultation with the governments of the Sudan and Kenya naturally occupied some time. If no specific reply was returned to Italy it was because the rapid development of Italian activities with regard to Ethiopia precluded a calm and considered discussion of these questions and their details.

"No instantaneous reply was possible and none was asked," declared the Foreign Secretary.

She was pinned under the axle, she testified, and was extricated by her husband and witnesses to the accident.

They both testified the accused had not spoken to them or given them his name and address. They testified the driver did not get out of the truck. He had driven away after Mrs. Longley was extricated, they said.

Ngan Kow, 860 Caledonia Avenue, a passenger with the accused, testified they had been driving on Pigard street and the horn had been sounded at the intersection. After the accident both the witness and the accused got out of the truck, witness testified. When Mrs. Longley was taken to the sidewalk they had decided to get an interpreter and report the accident to police.

Witness testified he told the accused to go to his (Ngan's) home and telephone for an interpreter while Ngan stated he would go to Chinatown to try and find him.

Constable Alex Nichol testified he found the accused's car parked on Caledonia Avenue after receiving the license number from Mr. Longley.

JAMAICA HAS LOSSES
Havana, Oct. 22.—Roaring hurricane which engulfed the eastern tip of Cuba and Western Haiti to-day left three persons reported dead and four injured in Santiago, Cuba.

Sweeping up from the island of Jamaica, where it had caused damage estimated at $2,500,000, the hurricane, accompanied by torrential rains, wrecked buildings and lifted roofs in Santiago, filling the streets with debris.

Among the known deaths at Santiago was that of Epifanio Perez, thirty-nine, who died of injuries received when a wall fell on her. Her husband, Cipriano Perez, was gravely injured.

Reports were lacking from Port-Au-Prince, Haiti.

Damage or the number of injured in Santiago and Oriente Province, where the hurricane apparently centered, could not be determined.

TOWNS EVACUATED
Two east Cuba towns, Caimanera and Bouqueron, have been evacuated. The storm was expected to sweep down on the eastern group of the Bahama Islands next.

Santiago had battered down for the blow. Caves and theatres were closed.

ESQUIMALT HAS CASH IN HAND

Auditors' Report For First Nine Months of Year Shows Good Standing

With a bank balance of $21,730.38, the municipality of Esquimalt ended the first nine months of the year in a sound financial position, according to figures contained in a statement of receipts and expenditures up to September 30 submitted to the municipal council by the auditors last night.

Actual receipts up to the end of the third quarter totaled $160,893.37. Expenditures for the same period, including the paying off of a $37,000 bank loan, amounted to $139,172.70.

Tax collections were revealed in the report as going ahead exceptionally well, with only $590 still to be collected on a year's general tax estimate of $66,517. Collections of taxes in arrears for the nine months were only $180 short of the twelve-month estimate of $7,429, and delinquent taxes were $825 below the estimate of $9,500.

Sewer rates and rentals were within a few dollars of the estimated year's collection of $6,234.

Actual receipts for the nine-month period were well ahead of the year's estimate, and disbursements for the three quarters were slightly above the twelve-month computation.

REFER SAWMILL TO ADMIRALTY

Official Attitude in Way of Rezoning Esquimalt, Council Says

The attitude of the Admiralty towards log booms in the northern part of Esquimalt Water is the only obstacle to the immediate rezoning of the area between the Dominion Government Drydock and the Songhees Indian reserve to permit the erection of a sawmill, the Esquimalt Council decided at its meeting last night.

The council received a letter from Ker and Stephenson Ltd., stating that the company had a client who wished to purchase a four and one-half acre site in that area to erect an electrically-driven mill, and asking that the area should be rezoned.

WORK FOR GOOD NUMBER
The mill would give work to a good number of men and benefit the municipality generally, the letter pointed out.

Reverend Alexander Lockley suggested that the Admiralty might have objections to the floating of log booms in that area, which is close to the entrance of the drydock.

The council finally decided that this company should first communicate with Ottawa on this question, and that if the answer was satisfactory they would consider favorably the question of amending the zoning by-law with regard to the area, which is at present listed for light industrial work.

The council also wished to be informed as to the company's plans for the provision of light, water, wharves and road facilities.

Esquimalt May Get Arterial Highways

The question of the transformation of Craigflower Road, or Admirals and Esquimalt Roads, or both these main streams of Esquimalt traffic into arterial highways was before the Esquimalt Council last night, and a resolution was forwarded to the Good Roads League.

The question of the proclamation and reconditioning of either or both of these routes as arteries was discussed at the league's recent convention, and the league, in a letter to the council, suggested that such a resolution be sent with which to approach the provincial government.

The resolution pointed to the increase in the volume of tourist traffic using these routes as a connecting link with the Island Highway.

WAS LEADING FIGURE IN BRITISH-IRISH AFFAIRS

THE LATE LORD CARSON
News of the death of the former barrister and famous Ulster leader came to-day from his home, at Cleve Court, near Ramsgate, England. The above picture shows him in a platform pose familiar to all the audiences he addressed.

BARON CARSON PASSES AWAY

"Geordie Carson" and "Rebel Carson" were some of the names he won during his long championing of Ulster's cause in the Anglo-Irish controversy.

Baron Carson of Duncannon did not resent even the "rebel" nickname and once said:

"If I am a rebel, why doesn't the government arrest me? I am prepared to be shot for my pains."

ORGANIZED VOLUNTEERS
His activities had brought him close to treason, for while he was fighting the Irish Home Rule bill of 1917, he was also organizing resistance in Ulster. With open rebellion looming in Northern Ireland in 1914, however, the Great War brought his volunteers into action on the continent.

A sketch of the life of Lord Carson naturally divides itself into two parts—his career as a lawyer and his career as a politician. The late Lord Birkenhead, no mean valuer of a man's talents in the law, once described Carson as the greatest figure at the bar since Erskine. The main facts of Carson's career as a politician are well known and the opinions held concerning them are clear-cut, but it might be ventured here that he had a following in the north of Ireland and in England which over a long space of years was almost fanatical in allegiance to his leadership. And there were thousands on the other hand (and they were fervid too) who held him "constitutional methods" who proclaimed just the opposite attitude.

STRANGE POSITION
Perhaps the most extraordinary thing of all, to those who know little or nothing of the Irish, was Carson's popularity with his political enemies. "He was never unpopular with the Irish Nationalists, and was almost popular with the Sinn Féiners," wrote Edward Healy. "I think his success, particularly on his political side, was not so largely an intellectual success as a character success," declared Mr. Hon. Sir James O'Connor. And that other lovable old Nationalist, the late "Tay Pay" O'Connor, once said of Carson: "I am not sure he was ever an enemy to Home Rule, infatuated or otherwise. I thought Carson was a most dangerous politician. He played a most dangerous part at a most critical moment."

Edward Healy Carson belonged to a very old family of south of Ireland Protestants; he was born on February 9, 1854. His father, Edward Henry Carson of Dublin, was at one time vice-president of the Institute of Architects. His mother was Isabella, daughter of Captain Lambert of County Galway. Carson's education was gained in Dublin, where he went to famous Trinity College. One of his fellow-students there was that unhappy genius, Oscar Wilde, who was destined for a grim encounter with Carson years later, when Carson was prosecutor at his trial.

His studies at Trinity completed, Carson went to the Irish bar. One of his companions on the Leinster circuit was another struggling young barrister, by name John Redmond. Carson's success at the Irish bar was such that he resolved upon migrating to England. There he quickly gained the prominence in the courts that he had earned over the water.

ALASKA COMMISSION
Lord Carson had the unique distinction of being both Solicitor-General for Ireland (in 1892) and Solicitor-General for England (1900-06). When holding the latter office he appeared for the United Kingdom in the celebrated Alaska Boundary Commission. The late Lord (then Sir Robert) Finlay, who was Attorney-General, and the present Justice Sir Sydney Rowlatt, were also counsel on the British side, and junior to them all was John Simon, then in his first youth as a barrister. This commission really constituted the foundation of Simon's great success at the bar. Sir Edward Carson, as he was then known, represented Dublin University in Parliament from 1892 to 1918, and the Duncannon division of Belfast from 1918 to 1921. He was Solicitor-General in the Unionist government following the "khaki" election of 1900, and held office until the Conservatives were defeated in 1906.

HOW MUCH IS WORK WORTH?

Thought Left By Prof. Angus In First of Four Lectures on Economics

"Suppose, instead of filling out an income tax return, you made out a report of your claim against society for services rendered during the year—what figure would you put it at? More, less, or the same as your present income? And how would you judge what you are worth?" This was the thought left by Prof. H. F. Angus, head of the Department of Economics and Sociology, at the University of British Columbia in the first of a series of four lectures on economics before the University Extension Society at the Girls' Central School yesterday evening.

Prof. Angus's next lecture will be next Monday when he will deal with the question, "Is Social Justice Practicable."

"What is the basis of our wealth?" the speaker asked. "The classical answer is land, which includes all natural resources, labor and capital. Of course this can be cut down to land and labor, but I am going to expand it to five. I am going to add knowledge and organization."

Organization was an important factor which was often forgotten, he said. If production were to be efficient, industry should be well organized. Society was not a going concern unless there was organization of some kind.

WANT AMIDST PLENTY
"Those that say there is want in the midst of plenty mean that we have plenty of man power, we have immense stock of accumulated capital, railways, factories, etc.—but we have not got the best sort of economic organization," Professor Angus said.

"There are two reasons for this," he continued. "Either we do not know what the best organization is, or we do not know what a better organization is, but there are certain people in power who obstruct us from putting this organization into effect."

Both of the reasons had elements of truth in the opinion of the lecturer.

The immense accumulation of capital at the present time was due to workers consuming less than they had produced.

The growth of the wish to make wealth grow—the capitalist spirit—is something that has not always existed, but has developed recently. The individual ambition which has been the driving force of the last 200 years has evolved under a certain condition, and you will probably see that we can get on just as well without it."

The lecturer dealt with inventions and the speed with which they could be exploited at the present time. By throwing people out of work, rapid use of inventions was putting a strain on organization.

The professor pointed out that capitalism had achieved a higher level of income than any other former system of organization, but, with the increased knowledge and power available, it might have raised the level a good deal higher.

THREE SOLUTIONS
The mass of wealth which was produced at the present time co-operatively was not only distributed unequally, but inequally.

The speaker outlined the three solutions to these problems which he proposed to deal with in his other lectures. There was first out-and-out Socialism which would replace profit by planning, and would cut out waste and effort by producing and distributing under social control.

There were the various monetary reforms, including social credit, which were favored by those people who still liked to take a chance in life, and if they could not be rich still liked to dream of being rich.

And finally there was reformed or planned capitalism which would do away with many of the bad products of the present capitalist organization.

Miss Margaret Clay announced that a mimeographed list of books recommended by the professor for study was available to those who wished to take the course.

J. L. Watson was in the chair.

AUTHOR TELLS LIFE STRUGGLE

Under the title of "The Celtic Pilgrimage," Dr. Alex Irvine, noted author and lecturer, yesterday evening sketched the history of his life before a large audience in Fairfield United Church.

The occasion marked the anniversary of the church, the lecture being preceded by an anniversary banquet attended by 150 persons.

Dr. Irvine told of his humble beginning in Antrim, Ireland. He left home to work in the coal mines near Glasgow, later joining the marines. At nineteen he had commenced his long march toward intellectual life. He had first learned reading and writing and later his indomitable spirit brought him an education at Oxford and Yale. He was first persuaded to write by Jack London, the author.

Dr. Irvine told of his lifetime struggle against those who did not wish to hear the real truths of Christianity and declared himself as a rebel against the state of society that made crime easy and the living of an honest life a colossal task.

He championed the laboring class and in this cause he had to face many vicissitudes.

The speaker referred to an experience during a brief business period, last year's executive with the addition of J. A. Heritage was re-elected in 1934.

GIVES JUDGMENT IN HINDU CASE

The latest outbreak of litigation between Dittu and Wassu Singh, two Hindus, ended to-day with Judge Lampman giving a judgment in which he said:

"These parties have been in litigation for a considerable time and their affairs have become so involved that they themselves are now somewhat confused in regard to them. I am not much impressed with Dittu's allegations about the bad conduct of the defendant. I cannot see that Dittu gains anything by now making these allegations as Dittu knew of the bad conduct, and allowed the defendant to live with him."

The judge allowed Dittu $25 on Jagat Singh's note, but Massa Singh succeeded in respect to the motor truck he said Dittu wrongfully detained since January, 1933. Massa Singh said he was entitled to $150 for the truck, but the judge said that was too much and gave him only $50.

The judge ordered Dittu to pay the costs of the trial.

ence of his own when he was kidnapped in the Imperial Valley. He had been rescued by Divine Intervention but rather than proceed with charges against his abductors he proposed returning to California and again utter his protest against conditions among the laboring class.

The lecture was preceded with vocal solos by Arthur Jackman, accompanied by C. C. Warren.

THAT SILENT VOTE

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN, TO QUOTE a Gilbertian dictum, every boy born in the Old Country was regarded as being either a little Liberal or a little Conservative, in the narrow partisan sense of each term. The infant was destined to vote Liberal or Conservative, not on a principle of policy, or because he knew what Liberalism or Conservatism really meant, but because his father and his remote ancestors voted that way. It was to be enough for him that a candidate should wear one label or the other, not that he or the party he espoused should have any special merit. Hence, the young man's thought processes, however active they may have been on other subjects, were static in politics. He was nothing but a robot whose machinery was wound up centuries before by somebody who did not know that the earth was round, who did not know, in many instances, what a bath was and who, in most cases, could neither read nor write.

But that moronic condition is rapidly passing away in democratic countries. While it is true that there still are people who vote for a party label, who proudly proclaim their mental deficiencies by saying that they would vote for one party or the other if their candidate was a chimpanzee, the number is rapidly diminishing. In Great Britain, the emergence of the Labor party is one indication of the change. In Canada and the United States the pronounced swing of the electorate from one party to another within a few years shows that the number of electors who do their own thinking, irrespective of the opinions of ancestors long dead and prejudices and predilections devoid of sound reason, is growing rapidly to such a point that the balance of electoral power is held by it.

A party organization can be disciplined and compelled to go step by step behind a leader, but not so the electorate. No political party can win an election without convincing the independent-thinking electors of the merits of its case. A leader may arouse the cheers of the party claque, of those who will vote for him because their ancestors in the distant past voted for the same label, but that is something vastly different from winning an election. The issue is decided by people who do not cheer at all, who do not go through life looking back over their shoulders and falling over their feet in consequence, many of whom do not even attend a political meeting.

Any party leader who thinks he is going to win because he is told by those who surround him that he has the election in the bag, is living in a fool's paradise. If he wants to know just what his prospects are he will get in touch with the man in the street or the woman making small purchases in a corner grocery store, and the last place in which he will make inquiries is his party organization. Both Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had their own personal agents sounding out that dominant element of the electorate; neither relied upon the reports of their ministerial colleagues or their party organizers or those who always had voted one way or the other because their fathers and grandfathers voted that way.

In the election of 1926, Mr. Mackenzie King chose as his issue the constitutional question arising from the refusal of the Governor-General to give him a dissolution, although a few days afterwards he gave Mr. Meighen, who for a brief respite succeeded Mr. King, the very same thing the Liberal leader as Prime Minister had asked for. Many of Mr. King's colleagues thought he was wrong in his choice of issues; they thought he should have emphasized, instead, the very favorable Robb budget. But Mr. King knew his public much better than his colleagues or organizers, just as he knew the Canadian electors this time much better than Mr. Bennett did. He had his own contacts with a cross-section of electoral sentiment, and he won.

It is the silent thinking voter who wins elections, not the man who is born either a little Liberal or a little Conservative, and in that fact lies considerable encouragement for those who are not too cynical to believe that democracy is still marching on.

UPWARD

STOCK AVERAGES IN THE BIG market, which have steadily been creeping upward during the year, yesterday again closed in new high ground. Is the market now in the act of discounting a period of general revival and expansion on this continent? It has been the habit—a function economists say—of the market to anticipate economic or business trends. The action in late 1929 and early 1930 may be recalled. Then prices of securities were crashing downwards. Political leaders and others assured us, however, that their fall was a thing apart, that it had no significance in respect to the trend of business, which, we were repeatedly told, was sound and secure from disturbance. How disastrously wrong the political and other leaders were, and how brutally right was the market as a forecasting agency, we were to learn within the six months that followed. Is the market to be equally accurate in reverse, now that it has taken up such a stoutly constructive trend?

Reports of steady gains in various lines of business and industry give support to Major Angus's prediction of the coming "boom" on this continent. There is also the factor deriving from the current flow of gold westward across the Atlantic. During the last six months $805,000,000 has crossed the ocean to swell the tremendous accumulation already held in the Federal Reserve vaults. And the flow continues. Every large, fast liner arriving in New York these days brings as much as $10,000,000 or more. This westward flow of gold means that Europeans have confidence in the immediate future on this side of the Atlantic, if not high expectations. The enormous volume of potential credit based on this gold can not remain idle if it is to fulfil the purpose of its migration.

It must be invested, thus entering into business and general development. This it is now doing, with the buoyant results currently being sensed.

As in the past, Canada will share, proportionately with the rest of this continent, the effects of this influx, especially now that stable political conditions have been established here.

THE WRONG TARGET

MANY CANDIDATES LOSE ELECTIONS because they shoot at the wrong target. They make their opponents the objective, whereas the real positive determining factor is the electorate. Candidates who think it good tactics to make their competitors squirm, to excite the cheers and laughter of supporters who are bound to vote for them in any and all circumstances, and who are satisfied that all is going well when they wisecrack themselves into newspaper headlines, invariably lose elections.

Some years ago there was a candidate in the east, a doctor, who never planned his campaign until he heard his opponent make his first political speech. If that speech was aimed at the wrong target, that is to say, if it was directed against him, instead of being a constructive, well-reasoned appeal to the electors, he relaxed his efforts, limited his organization's activities, saved his money and allowed his opponent to elect him. Being a doctor with a general practice, he knew more about the electors than anybody else; he knew more about what their real, unreserved and uncamouflaged attitude was likely to be.

If one's opponent is a respectable citizen of good record who honestly believes in his policy, every speech maligning him or associating him with unworthy causes wins voters to his side. The only way to beat such a candidate is to show the electorate that his policies are defective and likely to have an effect precisely opposite to that which he may genuinely believe, and that his opponent's own policies would be in the best interests of the country.

Undoubtedly the personal equation counts for much, but the theory that a successful candidate should be a good orator is exploded in every election. Electors often crowd a meeting to be addressed by an eloquent speaker, they often cheer him to the echo, and the next day go to the polls and vote against him. If a candidate has a good case, and is able to present it in such a way as to convince the voters that it is good, he is much more likely to be elected than the spell-binder who has not a good case or who, if he has one, relies more upon his ability as an entertaining rhetorician than as an advocate.

BRITAIN GOES ELECTIONEERING

CANADIANS, HAVING SPOKEN WITH such decisiveness last Monday on their own political issues, may now turn to observe with interest the general election that is getting under way in Britain. For the 615 seats in the House of Commons, there are already 1,300 candidates in the field. The voters, it is expected, will be called upon to make their choice from among these about the middle of next month.

With war clouds over part of Europe, it is not surprising that defence is one of the issues on which the election is being fought. The National Government under Mr. Baldwin is putting forward a big navy policy. Involving expenditures of £150,000,000 or more, this would probably mean the resumption of the international naval armament race, the pace of which was slowed down by the Washington Naval Agreement of 1921. Under a new leader, Mr. Clement Richard Attlee, the Labor party, constituting the chief opposition, is raising the issues of economic recovery and peace in general. The Laborites in their advocacy of disarmament have a large body of British opinion behind them, as revealed in tests during the last year. However, they are faced at the moment with reconciling their advocacy of arms reduction with their demand for League sanctions against a foreign aggressor.

We thought the political parties in Canada were enterprising in the matter of reaching the electorate. But in Britain the mechanics of persuasion have been developed beyond anything experienced to here. We learn of how the British voter is already being subjected to a new series of government propaganda films. Some of these are designed to illustrate the relative weakness of Britain in defence. Air strength of foreign powers is shown by pictures of air manoeuvres at home and abroad. Pictorial comparisons are also made of the naval armaments of Britain and other powers. These films will tour the country in vans.

Starting in these productions with Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, the party leaders, are Mr. Arthur Prince and Mr. Stanley Holloway, two outstanding comedians of the stage. They have been introduced with the idea of putting a smile into politics. It is the first time professional comedians have been so engaged in Britain. It is being received as a welcome innovation. Besides adding gaiety to politics, it provides a new field for stage folk whose opportunities have been restricted with the passing of the vaudeville or music hall stage. It may open the possibility of elections being fought and won by the party providing the best comedians. Supporters of Mr. Baldwin and his party, however, may well hope that he fares better with his professional entertainers than Mr. Bennett did in Canada with his "idiot boy" who was putting on the Saturday night programmes over the Canadian radio system during the weeks before election day. From the results at the polls, it would seem that nearly everyone who heard the "idiot boy" and his partner's counsel to vote for Mr. Bennett, went out and voted the other way.

BABY'S BUSY DAY

"Mother," I said, "put the baby to bed:
The poor little fellow's worn out.
From six up to six he has shown off his tricks
Till his brain must be twirling about.
For cousins and pieces he's said all his pieces
And sung every ditty he knows.
Let us force him no more to sit down on the floor
To count all his fingers and toes."

How weary he looked! He's gone through his books
Saying "how-wow" and "gee-gee" and "moo."
There is nothing to-night which would prove he is right
That he hasn't been called on to do.
He's repeated by word everything he has heard
Full a hundred times over or more.
Every moment awake he's played paddybake
Till those poor little hands must be sore.

Loose Ends

It is jolly to see them jump on new ideas—we find the five-way combination rather confusing—Mrs. Noggins is disillusioned—and a prayer is said for war.

SKEPTICS

IT IS INSPIRING to see how the whole medical profession has landed with two feet and a sword on the young doctor in Kingston who thinks he may have the beginnings of a cure for cancer. He had hardly mentioned the subject when an organized medicine swooped down on him with a piercing shriek, denouncing the whole thing as absurd, almost before it knew what he was driving at. The probabilities are that he hasn't a cure for cancer, but it is equally probable that if and when a cure is discovered, the medical profession will act in the same way. It will sweep down on the discoverer with a shriek and denounce him as a faker. The wonder is that such things as insulin ever survive the first shrieks of organized science.

A few weeks ago one of the world's greatest surgeons, whose name escapes me for the moment, wrote a book in which he knocked a great many of the medical profession's notions into a cocked hat. He said he had seen cases of incurable disease cured within an hour or two by prayer or faith or something which he couldn't explain. He said there were evidently forces at work in the universe which they didn't understand in medical schools. When I showed this to one of the ablest doctors in Victoria, he disposed of it instantly, without the slightest hesitation. "The poor man," he said, "is crazy. He's a first doctor once, but he's gone out of his mind." That settled that.

In the last few weeks there has been another strange man abroad, a young Hindu who walked on red hot coals before the leading scientists of England and did not even burn a piece. He was in this case pictures were taken of him as he walked on the coals of his feet. Then they sealed his eyes with dough and blindfolded him and he rode a bicycle through the traffic of London. A few years ago no one would have believed that it happened, but in this case pictures were taken of both performances. The only answer that a skilled scientist can make is that the Hindu is probably mad. If he were to walk on the water they would probably lock him up for life.

This attitude is interesting on the part of science, for not long ago it was the persecutors. All the mystics were the persecutors. All through the Middle Ages the people who believed in mysticism controlled the government through the universal church and any man foolish enough to monkey with physical sciences, was persecuted, put in jail or burned at the stake, or burned at the stake because he was thought to threaten the supremacy of the church-in-politics.

It took science centuries to win the right of free research and free opinion, to break the tyranny of the mystic. Now the position is reversed. Science is on top and the mystic is at the bottom. Science doesn't bother to put the mystic in jail or burn him at the stake, but it would quickly enough if it thought that mysticism endangered its position. In a hundred years, at our present rate of progress, they will probably burn young Hindus who walk on red-hot coals and ride bicycles blindfolded in the traffic. Such performances undoubtedly tend to undermine public faith in the infallibility of physical science.

This is in accordance with the well-tried law of history. No sooner does a group of people escape from the house of persecution and tyranny to preach universal freedom, than it builds another house of the same sort, larger and darker, and tyrannizes over someone else.

HARD PEOPLE
THE NEW CANADIAN government is going to call an interprovincial conference almost immediately. When it meets you will see why government is such a difficult and contradictory process in this country.

At the conference there will be representatives of the Maritime provinces, geographically, have less connection with Canada than most of the states to the south, which have been cut off from their natural markets in New England and have been subsidised enormously to keep them going within Confederation. There will be representatives from another race in Quebec, which looks on any change in the constitution or the fundamental laws of Canada as a menace to its race and religious rights. There will be representatives of Ontario, where a large part of the industry of Canada has been built up on a purely artificial basis behind tariff walls and would collapse if they were removed.

When you will have governments from western prairie provinces that have been crucified by these same tariffs, having no industries to protect, having to pay huge prices for every manufactured article they buy in order to help the eastern provinces.

And from British Columbia will go representatives who want still another programme from Canada, a programme of large federal loans and financial compensation which many of the other provinces will consider faintly mad.

To bring some kind of unity out of this jumble of conflicting interests is a big job and in the end will not satisfy any one of the five interests completely; the best you can get is a reasonable compromise in such a nation. Not one of the five understands what the other feels or thinks about things. Why, in British Columbia, we are so completely isolated from the east that during the recent election, because there was a strong Conservative vote here, many British Columbians thought the Bennett government would be returned. They had no idea how the east was thinking.

If you go down to Quebec, down in the little farms along the St. Lawrence, you will find young men and women who imagine vaguely that there is a wilderness west of Red Indians west of Toronto. Not many years ago when I tried to tell a Quebec farmer that there was a big city in the west, he said, "I was lying to him or that I was a lunatic at large. There were some people in Upper Canada, he said, but west of that, just wilderness."

We envy the unity of England. Spread even the large population of the United Kingdom across our country, like clothes far apart on a clothes line, and you would have no more unity than we have here. Geography is a stubborn thing.

STILL UP
BUT PEOPLE are impatient with governments in Canada. Only this morning I gave Mrs. Noggins and a couple of roasting fowl a lift to town. "Well," said she, "we got a new government 'mint all right. King's in a new government's out and I hope the people of the country is satisfied. What difference 'as 'as made to you and me, sir? I'd like to know!"

"My old man," she said, "he's a Liberal and he said the juries 'd come down as soon as the Liberals got in and then we'd be able to buy a bit of a car—second-hand, you know, but good enough to take me hither and yon with." But the juries ain't down. The price of cars is still high. A body can't hafford one, can you? Of course, I knew if me bones nothin' 'd happen if the government changed. My boy—he's a plumber, you know, and C.C.F. and people tell things to a plumber they won't tell to nobody else—he told me long ago it won't make no difference if Bennett goes out and King goes in. The juries, 'e says, will be all the same, 'e says, and you won't get no car, 'e says. Well, blow me, 'e's right, ain't 'e?"

"Right 'e is! I went and saw the service station boys at the corner about a new car yesterday, but they said the price is still the same. King ain't done nothin'. And the price of hogs ain't gone up neither and they ain't fixed our road. I'm glad I voted Reconstruction. I tell you, sir, these politicians is all the same. Bennett's out and King's in, but nothin's changed. The juries is still 'igh and hogs is still low. It's enough to make a body a com-munist, ain't it?"

PRAYER
AS THE war in Ethiopia goes on and the nations at large increase their armaments for still bigger and better wars, the prayer written by Mark Twain a long time ago becomes topical. In case you have forgotten it, Mr. Twain's runs like this:

"O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smirking fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the wailing of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their little children to wander unfriended through the wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sun's heat and winter's broken and icy winds of famine; implore Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied us—for our sake, 'O Lord, 'O Lord, 'O Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snows with the blood of their wounded feet! We ask of One who is the spirit of love and who is the ever faithful refuge and friend of all that are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory, now and ever. Amen."

Now, I don't want to have to tell you again that you're violating the first principles of structural engineering!"

The Best GRAY HAIR Remedy is Made at Home

YOU can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any drugstore can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Orlex imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color scalp, it will not irritate, it does not rub off.

AVENGED ITALIANS HAIL ADUWA VICTORY AS WORLD POWERS STRIKE AT AGGRESSOR

Impressive testimonial of Italy's mad jubilation over the capture of Aduwa, avenging her galling defeat at the hands of Ethiopians thirty-nine years ago, is this scene in the Cathedral Square, at Milan, where a great, torch-lighted throng massed to hail "Il Duce" and join their voices in a vast, reverberating psalm of triumph. Capture of Aduwa, in northern Ethiopia, dispelled the shadow of which had clouded military Italy since February 29, 1896, when a horde of Ethiopian tribesmen overwhelmed 17,700 troops under Gen. Baratieri.

In an atmosphere of extreme tension, League of Nations leaders are shown here in their historic session at Geneva when they invoked Article XVI of the covenant, opening the way for sanctions against Italy as the aggressor in the Ethiopian war. Playing major roles in the stirring drama were (1) Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy; (2) Premier Laval of France; (3) Dr. Enrique Ruiz-Guinazu of Argentina, president of the League Council; (4) Sir Anthony Eden, British representative, and (5) Tekla Hawariat, Ethiopian envoy.

PROVING NAPOLEON WAS RIGHT

MAY BE IL DUCE'S PUPPET KING

A deserter with 12,000 of his troops from the Ethiopian cause, Haile Selassie Gugga is shown here at the time of his marriage to a daughter of Emperor Haile Selassie, with attendants holding umbrellas over the wedding pair. The bride died about two years ago. Dispatches indicate that Gugga may be made head of a puppet state to be carved out of Ethiopia by Italy. He is said to have a claim to the Ethiopian throne, as a grandnephew of King John IV, who died in 1889.

BOY STAR FACES CUSTODY BATTLE

The comradeship which long has existed between Hollywood's famed boy star, Freddie Bartholomew, and his guardian-aunt, Miss Millicent Bartholomew, as revealed in this intimate studio lunch scene, was threatened by reports that the lad's parents in England may move to regain his custody. Miss Bartholomew has announced she will seek permanent custody of Freddie, eleven, for whom she has cared since he was three.

SHOWING GLIDER PILOT A HIGH TIME

The load-lifting possibilities of a free balloon were demonstrated at the dirigible training school of the Soviet army near Moscow, when one ascended 12,000 feet with a glider and pilot in tow. Borodin, Russian glider ace, soared back to earth when his plane was released.

STRIKERS MAKE MILK CATARACT

A Niagara of milk poured off this Chicago and Northwestern railroad bridge near Genoa City, Wis., when farmers, striking for higher prices, took charge of the train and dumped the contents of several dairy cars consigned to the Chicago market. New reports of violence were received from several sections as efforts continued to arrange a truce in the strike affecting northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

IN WINTER OF LIFE

Tightly bundled up despite the bright sunshine that made the air comfortable for his companions without topcoats, John D. Rockefeller Sr., aged and feeble financier, is pictured being assisted from the train by two attendants on his arrival at Ormond Beach, Fla., for his winter sojourn.

COMPASSION FOR THE WOUNDED—IN OLD-NEW ETHIOPIA

Leaving for the northern front, these trucks carry hastily trained first aid detachments and field hospital equipment to care for those wounded in the battles with invading Italian forces.

Before going into hiding, Empress Menen formed a first aid association in Addis Ababa to make bandages. The Empress (right) and Lady Barton, wife of the British Minister, are shown working side by side.

Supreme in Flavour "SALADA" TEA The BLUE DOOR by Rachel Mack

"Oh yes," replied Bertha, and she took the plate and sat down at the kitchen table. Her hands were trembling. All color was drained from her face. She stared at the cake uneasily, and then she began to crumble it in her fingers.

Ruth finished tidying the kitchen and watched her in puzzled silence. Presently she asked gently, "Has something happened to shock you, Penny? Was that a telegram at the door?"

The old woman looked at her intently and then lowered her eyes. "Yes," she said, "a telegram. A body never knows what to expect these days."

"Was it bad news?" asked Ruth, anxiously. "Was it about your job here?"

"Not that," replied the old woman, harshly. "Something else. Something I've hoped for a long time. And—dreaded."

"Oh!" said Ruth. She wondered where the telegram was. In Penny's apron pocket, perhaps. She asked, "Would it help you any to share the news with me?"

Bertha Gibbs shook her head, seemed to draw within herself. "I'll share the news with nobody," she said defiantly. "Don't keep at me! She was a changed person. Before that knock on the door she had been merely a pathetic, dingy little old woman, eagerly happy over a cake with pink icing. She had returned from the summons like a weird old witch, suspicious, hateful, remote."

Ruth shivered a little. "Darkness had fallen outside and a drizzling rain had set in. Sudden gusts of wind sent the leaves scurrying. The McNeill house was dark across the lawn. John had told Ruth that he would spend the day in Akron and that he was having dinner to-night with one of the men in his firm, a man named Bennet. Mrs. Bennet's niece was visiting them and John had been asked to make a fourth at dinner and bridge."

Ruth thought, looking across at the dark house. "I guess he's terribly in demand because he's so terribly eligible." She wondered if Mrs. Bennet's niece was attractive and tried not to hate her.

She turned from the window and lighted another candle, a thick one that stood in a heavy holder and gave off a light that was strong enough for reading. She would go into the library, she decided, and choose a book to read in her room. Something heavy. Something that would make her sleepy, so she wouldn't be awake through the long evening, waiting for John McNeill to leave Mrs. Bennet's niece.

Ignoring Penny because of her strange rudeness, she left the room, went to the library and carefully selected her book.

NEW RADIO DIAL INTRODUCED

Stewart-Warner Introduces New Feature of Radio, That Is Proving Popular

One of the chief topics in the radio world nowadays is the new dial which has just been introduced as a feature of the current Stewart-Warner Radios. Usually radio listeners have been satisfied, if their radio dials were calibrated. They expected to shift the pointer at random until they discovered the stations they desired. Now with the new Magi-Lite Logomatic Dial they have most of this research work done for them. Call numbers of thirty-nine popular long-wave stations are etched into this colorful glass dial, so that listeners, instead of frenzied searching merely tune in to the call letter on the dial. Designed to match the modern flair for color, the Magi-Lite Logomatic Dial is also an object of real beauty. Illuminated colors flash in sequence as the wave-band switch is brought into play. There are three separate wave-bands and one special band-spread, each wave-band lighting up individually and in a distinctive color. Incidentally, the special band-spread makes possible the logging of even short-wave stations. The Magi-Lite Logomatic Dial, with its double quality of legibility and loveliness, marks a radical and welcome departure in radio distinction and tuning ease.

HOROSCOPE

The stars incline, but do not compel. Wednesday, October 23, 1935. Friendly stars guide to-day, which, according to astrology, mark auspicious and philanthropic and charities. Hospitals should benefit.

There is a sign indicating intrigue and deceit as more prevalent than usual. Solitaires will affect many human relations.

This is a favorable day for banks and banking. It is most fortunate for those who seek loans or financial advice.

Strong influences now will be active in federal affairs and there is an aspect that certainly brings Good Luck to far-reaching power, first as a peace-maker and then as holder of new international responsibilities.

Next month is read as a time for audacious and sensational changes of policies, national and international. France and Belgium are to furnish material for newspaper headlines of great interest.

Persons whose birthdays it is have the summer of a year of splendid success in the practical for the visionary. Romances may be cast.

Children born on this day probably will be imaginative and artistic. Subjects of the sign may have extraordinary talents that assure fame.

Charles Albert Scher, actor, was born on this day, 1894. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include P. H. Renshaw, artist, architect and writer, 1935, and Robert Bridges, poet-laureate of England, 1844.

Don't Guess But Know
Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations.

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches and pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly in regard to "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as upsetting to the stomach and, often, bad for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

CHILDREN AS HOME CRITICS

Object to Whippings, Nagging and Ridicule in Home Training

Associated Press

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—"Spare the rod and spoil the child" may be a good axiom, but not if you ask the children themselves.

From what children wrote about their home training, Dr. Fred McKinney of the University of Missouri reported to-day they regard whipping as one of the chief faults of their parents.

Speaking at a parent education conference, Dr. McKinney, psychologist, said children also objected to domineering attitudes, nagging, ridicule, pleas for sympathy and stifling of discussion.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Hears Speakers

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a most successful thanksgiving meeting in the lecture room of the church on Monday afternoon. In the absence of Mrs. J. Kennedy, president, Mrs. William Ellis occupied the chair and opened the meeting with praise. She referred to the sad loss Mrs. Kennedy had sustained and instructed the secretary to convey to her the sympathy of the members.

The devotional part was in the hands of Mrs. J. P. Dempsey, who read the scripture lesson from the Psalms and also a splendid extract on mission work.

Mrs. Eldridge and Miss McKinnon led in prayer and Miss Jean McGowan sang a solo; Mrs. J. P. Jaffray was accompanist.

Mrs. Ellis introduced Mrs. W. A. Cushing of the Y.W.C.A., who gave an excellent address on the aims and work of the Y.W.C.A. This was greatly appreciated and it was generally felt it was good for a women's society, whose aim was the furtherance of the gospel, to hear of the progress of another society whose aim was the welfare of young women.

Rev. J. S. Patterson, moderator of the synod and also a guest speaker, brought greetings from the synod. He also gave an address on the privileges of working for the great Master and the efficacy of prayer. He gave many varied illustrations of the power of prayer and the need for frequent visits to the "power house" or secret chamber of prayer. Mr. Patterson enlarged on the place the church had taken during the years of depression and showed how it had progressed. The fact that the church had fewer debts now than it had a few years ago was significant and full of encouragement.

A delightful tea arranged by Mrs. M. Hodge was served and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

New York, Oct. 22.—A jury in the New York Supreme Court yesterday returned a verdict awarding John D. Williams, former stage director, $25,000 in his suit against Maude Adams for services in arranging for her return to the stage in 1931.

TO SHOW WORK BY VAN GOGH

New York Exhibition of Tragic Dutch Artist's Pictures Arranged

The Museum of Modern Art, New York, has received a shipment of forty-five oil paintings and forty-six drawings and watercolors by the Dutch artist, Vincent van Gogh. The shipment is valued at $1,000,000 and includes many of the finest examples of the artist's work. The pictures were selected last summer by Alfred H. Barr Jr., Director of the Museum, who went abroad to arrange loans for the museum's large Van Gogh exhibition which will be open to the public November 5 until January 8, 1936.

The shipment consists of two lots: thirty-three oils and thirty-five drawings and watercolors from the collection of the Kroeller-Mueller Foundation at Wassenaar, Holland, which includes in its one thousand or more paintings and drawings the most important Van Gogh collection in the world—ninety-eight oils and more than 100 drawings and watercolors; and twelve oils and eleven drawings and watercolors from the collection of the Engineer Vincent W. van Gogh of Amsterdam, nephew of the artist and son of his favorite brother Theo, whose own life was closely involved in his brother's tragic career.

ARTIST'S TRAGIC LIFE
The tragedy of Vincent van Gogh's life can be vividly illustrated by the pictures shown before the world's complete neglect of even his masterpieces while he lived and the appreciation and homage the world gives to his work now he is dead.

So far as can be ascertained, Van Gogh during his lifetime was able to sell only two of the more than 700 pictures he painted. One of these was a portrait he was commissioned to paint for twenty francs ($4); the other, a landscape, his brother sold for 400 francs ($80) a year before the artist's death. In addition Van Gogh sold about twenty drawings at the average of $125 a drawing. These comprised his entire sales during his lifetime, from which he realized a total amount of little more than $100. One of his paintings of sunflowers, a favorite subject with Van Gogh, he himself modestly estimated should bring 500 francs ($100), but there was no sale of it during his lifetime. Several years ago, one of these sunflower paintings was sold for $50,000.

TERRIBLE FATALITY
Vincent van Gogh, son of a Dutch protestant pastor, was born at Zundert, the Netherlands, in 1853. Not until he was twenty-eight years old, after a thwarted and tragic youth, did he determine to become a painter. For five years after he began painting he lived in abject poverty in his native Holland. The murky greens and browns of his canvases of that period reflect his life at that time.

In 1888 he went to Paris and there his palette began to brighten. Two years later, in Provence, Van Gogh discovered himself and for the remaining two years of his short life painted with such violent energy that his canvases radiate a terrible vitality of color, rhythm and form.

Three years were marked by periods of insanity and when Van Gogh shot himself, in July, 1890, he left a last note to his brother: "I am risking my life for my work and for it my sanity has half-forgotten."

MILTON POEM TO BE SUNG

Schubert and Meistersingers

Rehearse "Blest Pair of Sirens" For Friday

There is no lovelier poem in English literature than Milton's "Blest Pair of Sirens," which pictures the celestial city and the joys of the departed as related in the Book of Revelation.

Sir Hubert Parry, the great British composer, was so impressed with the beauty of Milton's work that he set it to music and dedicated it to Sir Charles Villiers Stanford and the Bach Choir. Sometimes a poem is better known when set to music, and it might well be said that Parry has made Milton's poem famous, the music portrays in a vivid and awe-inspiring manner the scene round the Great White Throne when the Angels Harpists sing praises of Him.

Those privileged to hear this fine work to be rendered at the Choral Recital to be given in the First United Church on Friday evening next will long remember the musical treat. Grace Timp will accompany at the piano and Jack Smith at the organ. Frederic King will conduct. The Schubert Club will be heard in several numbers, also the Meistersingers, the full ensemble will be heard in some of the finest choral works of the present day.

As a tribute to the memory of Alfred Gurney, late organist of the First United Church, Wagner's "When to Thee Our Saviour Went," will be sung. This was one of Mr. Gurney's favorite Wagner numbers. Rheinberger's "Intermezzo" for the fourth organ sonata will also be rendered as a similar tribute.

Tickets may be had from members of both choirs; also the First United Church Choir and Fletcher Bros. The recital will commence at 8 p.m.

WINNERS OF KNITTING CONTEST

Last Thursday afternoon, the Hudson's Bay Company held an interesting knitting contest in which over 150 ladies took part. Half an ounce of "Bay" four-ply fingering was given to each contestant—the idea being to see who could knit it up the quickest and neatest (plain garter stitch). At 3 o'clock the needles began clicking. Three prizes of $15, $10 and $5 in merchandise certificates were given to the winners who are pictured above. The winners were as follows: First, Mrs. R. P. James, corner Carey Road and Whitehead; second, Mrs. Barbour of Vancouver, who is staying at 624 Church Street, and third, Mrs. J. W. Nicholson, 1231 Balmoral Road. The judges were Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Merrick. During the judging a dainty afternoon tea was served to all the contestants.

HELPFUL TIPS TO COOKS FOR THANKSGIVING DINNER

By SISTER MARY

It's Thanksgiving time again and to many of us Thanksgiving means turkey and cranberry sauce with the potatoes and onions and turnips and squash that "got into a regular flutter" when the farmer's wife gave them each a taste of the very same kind of butter.

Others may choose chicken, duck, guinea fowl, pork, rabbit or other game with their proper accompaniments and vegetables. But whatever your choice, keep the menu simple and as typical of Colonial days as is possible. Much of the preparation for the Thanksgiving dinner can be completed the day before if the hostess plans carefully. Some of the tasks can even be taken care of early in the week.

The size of your family will undoubtedly influence your choice of "turkey." The small family may find chicken more suitable to its needs and the menu will be quite satisfactory in every way.

Turkey Menu
Fruit Cup Served in Red Apples
Roast Turkey Chestnut Stuffing
Mashed Potatoes Giblet Gravy
Cranberry Jelly
Home-made Pickles Creamed Onions
Buttered Squash
Jellied Cabbage Salad
Pumpkin Pie

Nuts Coffee
Sweet cider, spiced cider cup or grape juice can be served with the meal.

If chicken is substituted for turkey, the same menu can be used or the following one, if preferred:

Chicken Menu
Cream of Tomato Soup With
Roast Chicken Giblet Gravy
Oyster Stuffing
Candied Sweet Potato Balls
Broccoli in Hot Lemon Butter
Pickled Peaches Celery Hearts
Waldorf Salad with Cream Cheese
Balls
Indian Pudding

Nuts Coffee

AVOID LAST-MINUTE RUSHING

Both of these menus are planned with little last-minute rushing. In the first menu the turkey is stuffed ready for the oven on Wednesday. The giblets are cooked and chopped, the onions cooked ready to be reheated in cream sauce, the squash baked and removed from the shell, the salad made and put into the refrigerator to chill and become firm and the pumpkin stewed and sifted ready for pie—all on Wednesday.

Thursday morning the pies are baked before the oven is needed for the turkey. The potatoes must be cooked and mashed. The gravy is made in the roasting pan after the turkey is removed to hot platter. The cream sauce must be made and the "onions" added, allowing about twenty minutes to be sure they are thoroughly heated in the sauce.

The squash is seasoned and reheated for twenty minutes over hot water. The table must be set and the fruit and nuts arranged for serving.

FRUIT CUP MUST WAIT
The fruit for the fruit cup can be washed and put on ice Wednesday, but the apples cannot be made into cups, nor the fruit actually prepared for serving until an hour before dinner time. Chill until ready to serve.

Make the cranberry jelly Tuesday or Wednesday.
The chicken menu means a little more work on Thursday because the salad cannot be made the day before and the pudding must be baked while the dinner is cooking so it can be served warm.

Clean the broccoli, celery and lettuce on Wednesday. Take care of the chicken as suggested for turkey and cook the sweet potatoes ready to cut with vegetable cutter on Wednesday.
Serve the Indian pudding with vanilla ice cream.
Make the Waldorf salad of apples, nuts and raisins.

DAUGHTERS OF PITY MEETING TO-NIGHT

The annual meeting of the Daughters of Pity will be held in the Nurses' Home at the Jubilee Hospital this evening at 8 o'clock, when reports will be presented and officers elected. Miss Elizabeth Grubb, of the Friendly Help Welfare Association, will give a short talk.

LOCAL DEAF TO ORGANIZE CLUB

Meeting of Miss Kate
Gaudin's To-morrow to Discuss Plan

With a view to ameliorating the lot of the deaf and partially deaf in Victoria, a meeting to organize a branch of the American Society of Hard of Hearing will be organized at a meeting to be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Miss Kate Gaudin, 1260 Fort Street.

The Victoria club is being organized with the idea, first, to promote the welfare of the deafened; secondly, to provide facilities for lip-reading practice, for social entertainments to bring members together and to help and encourage members to form new friendships, etc.; thirdly, to give unbiased advice in regard to hearing aids and as soon as possible to procure a group hearing aid which will enable the club to have lectures and entertainments which can be enjoyed by all the members.

All over the United States and Canada these clubs are being formed and the good they do is incalculable. There is a large percentage of deafened people in Victoria, and there are many who feel that thereby they are ostracized. Those who suffer from this form of disability in hearing have the greatest difficulty in convincing others that their disability is not half so serious when there is a definite form of understanding between all concerned, otherwise they become the butt of ridicule and unknowingly, accused of stupidity. To combat these conditions, these clubs are being started, and the people affected have realized that by uniting they can insist on their rights.

From a humanitarian point of view these clubs are welcomed by many friends of the deaf who thereby learn just how to make life more livable for those they love and admire. Many of the associate members are not deafened at all, but have taken it up to assist in this great work. No one knows when he or she who hears so well may become deaf.

It is hoped that a clubroom, open daily, will be made possible; a monthly publication in the interests of the deaf, will be available and the social side of life, including luncheons, dinner and card parties will be organized.

A cordial invitation has been extended to all interested in the movement to attend the meeting Wednesday.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHER NEEDS DIET RICH IN MINERALS

From personal observation most mothers discover how rapidly their teeth decay during pregnancy. This is a burden which is not necessary endure, for rapid decay of her teeth should warn the mother that she is probably failing to provide herself with some of the essential food elements.

The fetus extracts minerals from the mother's body to build up its own bones, its teeth only when the mother's diet is lacking in these minerals. When the mother's teeth are decaying and her hair falling out—she should make haste to improve her diet, especially in its mineral contents.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Milk is the richest source of calcium and phosphorus, those two elements which provide the hardness and strength in bones and teeth. Milk is a prescribed part of every pregnant mother's diet and it may be served sweet or in the form of buttermilk, or utilized in cooking the solid foods. Fruits and vegetables are the second most generous providers of minerals, and so green vegetables, both cooked and raw, and fresh and cooked fruits should be served to the pregnant mother daily.

When cavities have developed the dentist should be visited. There was once a fear of all such natural services at this time but mothers are becoming better acquainted with the idea that babies are not affected by emotional experiences but develop and grow if they have sane health care and the sensible and adequate diets no matter what the mother sees, hears or feels.

GOOD DIET FOR HEALTH

During the pregnant period the baby's teeth are being formed and so to furnish the mother a diet which provides material for these tooth buds is fully as essential to their later beauty and soundness as for her to furnish the baby a good diet after its birth.

Our leaflet, "Diet for the Prospective Mother," outlines the daily diet which will keep the mother in health and furnish her with enough of those elements which baby needs, so that her own body will not be robbed of them. This leaflet may be had for a self-addressed and 3-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

FORD APPEALS TO THE LADIES

New V-8 Car Has Improved Steering and Synchronization of Gears

Appeal of the Ford V-8 car to women, and particularly to women drivers, will reach a new high mark in 1936, according to L. de S. Duke of National Motor Company Limited, local Ford dealers.

"Ford was the first automobile manufacturer to put personal transportation within the reach of millions," Mr. Duke explained. "The steady advance of Ford engineering, epitomized in recent years in the Ford V-8, has brought such refinements in performance and in riding comfort that it was inevitable the car should make an unusual appeal to women. I think this appeal may be traced to such features as safety, easy handling, comfortable riding and attractive modern appointments.

"Let's just consider a few of these for a moment. In the Ford V-8 for 1936, refinements in the steering make the car exceptionally easy to drive and to park. In all speeds the gears are quiet, even using the spectacular acceleration of the car to the full. Silent shifting is made easy by the synchronized second and high speeds. The distance necessary to throw the gear shift lever in changing gears has been lessened. The safe and exceptionally effective four-wheel brakes may be set for 'foot' pedal action suitable to a woman's strength. The clutch is very easy to operate, because the smooth take-up of engine power is assisted by centrifugal action.

"The long lines of the car and its brilliant, durable baked enamel finish give prestige when standing at the curb before the finest home.

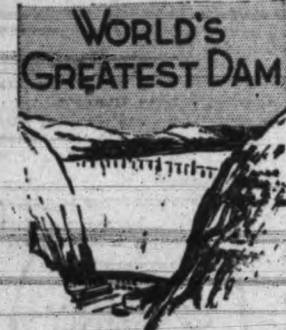

"The interiors, with their harmonizing colors and rich upholstery fabrics, have an immediate appeal. The deeply cushioned seats are comfortable. Hours of driving are not tiring. There are also the little things that a woman especially appreciates—plenty of room for luggage and parcels out of the way; a roomy glove compartment in the instrument panel; assist cords, arm rests and the comfortable foot rests in the rear compartments of the Fordor types. The advantage of being able to sit three in the front seat is real comfort is worth while.

"Women also are attracted by the Ford clear-vision ventilation system and the fact that safety glass is standard equipment not only in the windshield but also in all doors and windows.

"In all closed cars the driver's seat is adjustable, bringing the operating pedals within comfortable reach. Instruments are directly in front of the driver. Sun visors are adjustable. Tilting ash tray and electric cigarette lighter are at hand for her comfort. In fact, the entire car was designed with a woman's comfort always in mind."

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

Completion of Boulder Dam, greatest engineering project of its kind, is marked by issuance of a new stamp picturing this huge mass of concrete holding back the Colorado River to form the world's largest artificial lake, 116 miles long and eight miles at its greatest width.

Power equalling almost the combined output of Uncle Sam's three other mighty hydro-electric plants—Niagara, Conowingo and Muscle Shoals—will come from this $165,000,000 dam. A new city, Boulder City, has arisen here, and from here will go lines, costing $28,000,000, that will carry power to Southern California, a $38,000,000 canal to Imperial Valley and a $229,000,000 aqueduct to south California.

The illustration above is the view of the dam chosen for the new stamp.

Most Valuable Player Awards For Victoria Footballers

THE SPORTS MIRROR

A REVOLUTIONARY scheme, which would probably have a far-reaching effect on the ultimate playings in the various divisions of the football league, is being discussed in Scottish soccer circles. It is understood that the proposal, which provides a bonus of four points for an away win (instead of the present two) and three points for the away team concerned in drawn games, is to be considered officially. The present system if two for a win and one for a draw would still operate in the case of home teams. Only the away teams putting up excellent performances would benefit.

George Allison, manager of Arsenal club, said it struck him as being a rather drastic reform, but well worth considering. It would be interesting to see what effect it would have upon the positions of the various teams. Such a scheme would evoke a certain amount of criticism. For instance, many teams when playing away concentrate on merely avoiding defeat, instead of going out for a win. The result is they play defensive and not constructive football and the extra points would be awarded for a lower standard of football, instead of for better class play.

Here is a chance for the statistically minded enthusiast to work out for himself how the scheme would affect the placings of the teams for a whole season.

Peter O'Dowd, the former England, Chelsea, Burnley and Blackburn Rovers' centre-half, has signed on for Valenciennes, the well-known club in Northern France. The amount paid for his signature and details of his salary have not yet been revealed. Reports that he was signed for £200 with a weekly wage of £10 have not been confirmed. Valenciennes is a club in the national division, which corresponds to the English first division. At the moment the club has only one point and are placed second from bottom in the league. The leaders, however, are only seven points ahead. The supporters of Valenciennes are now hoping that with a first-class footballer like O'Dowd in the side, the club will soon stage a revival.

O'Dowd has been a victim of the craze for "stopper" centre-half-backs. Cool and stylish, O'Dowd is a constructive player. He is not a defensive centre-half, but a player who can always be seen well up with his forwards, instead of lying behind his own backs. O'Dowd, who was placed on the transfer list at his own request when at Chelsea, has two international caps. He played for England against Scotland in 1928, and against Ireland in 1933. He lost favour with the selectors through his failure to comply with their policy of a defensive centre-half. Thus English football loses one of its most rare possessions, a stylish attacking centre-half.

Brentford, who are finding that the path in the first division is not strewn with roses, have suffered a severe blow by the doctor's report that Charles Walsh, a forward whom they signed from Arsenal at a big fee in the 1932-33, will not be able to play soccer again. Walsh has been very unlucky since his transfer to Griffin Park. He injured his spine while diving into a swimming pool, and has had other minor injuries. He arrived fit for the present season, but in training before the season opened, he trod hard on the ball and received a knee injury. He visited two specialists and the verdict was that a ligament is stretched. The effect is, that Walsh will be able to play most games, except football.

Walsh is the third case in recent years of a footballer's career being cut short by injury. Marsden, the Sheffield Wednesday and England international half-back, was seriously injured while on tour with an association team in the season 1929-30. After some time he began playing again for the Wednesday reserves, but had another breakdown and finally dropped out of the game. A more recent case was that of Frank Newton, the Fulham centre-forward who last season broke a leg while playing against an Austrian team which was touring England. It was announced in April this year that his football days were over.

THISTLES PRACTICE
Sanwich Thistles football team will hold an important meeting and training session at the Athletic Park tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

Intercity Team Members Compete For Gold Medals

Most Valuable and Second Most Valuable Players Will Secure Awards

NORTH SHORE TO PLAY THURSDAY

Members of Victoria's team in the Intercity Football League will this season compete for two beautiful gold medals to be presented to the two players judged the most valuable during both the home and away matches. This was the announcement made to-day by J. R. Jones, secretary of the Victoria committee of the British Columbia Football Commission. The medals have been presented by two anonymous donors. One medal will go to the player judged the most valuable, and the other to the player judged the second most valuable.

A committee will be appointed by the donors and the chairman of the Victoria committee, consisting of three members. The group will remain a secret committee, and none of them will be connected with any club or the Victoria committee. This committee will select and report the names of three players in each game in which Victoria United players are engaged, ranking them first, second and third. The player receiving first in each game will be awarded three points; the second two points; and the third one point. At the end of the season the player having the highest number of points will be awarded the medal for the most valuable player, and the player getting the second highest number of points the medal for the second most valuable player.

In games played in Vancouver arrangements will be made to have reports sent in on each fixture. For games at Nanaimo the secret committee will attend.

On Thursday afternoon the Victoria United squad will make its debut in the Intercity League against North Shore United. The kick-off for the holiday fixture at the Athletic Park will be at 2:30 o'clock with T. M. Robb as referee.

LOCAL ELEVEN
The local league will send the same team against the Shores that was selected to oppose New Westminster Royals here. The line-up follows: Gordie Chalmers, goal; Sammy Easler and Freddie Gibbons, full-backs; Ronnie Williams, Roy Barnes and Eddie Gibson, half-backs; Gordie Bell, Scotty Stewart, Dick Miller, Noel Morgan and George Payne, forwards. Substitutes will be John Campbell, Ernie Loranidini and Doug Laird. Jim Mesher will manage the team and Roy Barnes will act as captain.

On Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Park Victoria City and Sanwich Thistles will clash in the semi-finals of the Milton Cup knockout at 2:30 o'clock. W. J. Cull will referee. The winner will meet Victoria West in the final. Last Saturday the West eliminated Esquimalt 2 to 1.

CARPET BOWLING
Draw for the opening matches in the Victoria Carpet Bowling League was made yesterday evening at a special general meeting held in the Eagles' Hall. Nineteen teams have entered the two sections, two less than last season. Complete list of fixtures for the first half will be announced later this week.

Opening games follow:

RUGBY GROUP SECURES PARK

The three feature games of the local rugby season will be played at the Athletic Park. It was announced to-day by George Paulin, secretary of the Victoria Rugby Union. The oval ball adepts will use the park on November 11 for the annual Army Game between the Fifth Brigade and the Canadian Scottish, on Boxing Day for the only McNeish Cup game scheduled for Victoria this season, and on January 29, when Victoria Rugs will meet the New Zealand All-Blacks.

HARTNETT IS GIVEN HONOR

Catcher of Chicago Cubs Voted Most Valuable Player in National League

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—Charles "Gabby" Hartnett, veteran catcher of the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs, to-day was voted the most valuable player in the National Baseball League for 1935 by the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Hartnett, who went to the Cubs in 1923 from Worcester, Mass., has played his entire major league career with the team. He was voted seventy-five points as against sixty-six for Dizzy Dean of St. Louis Cardinals, who ran second in the voting. Dean won the 1934 award.

Asky Vaughn, Pittsburgh shortstop, was third with forty-five points. Billy Herman, another Cub, ran fourth with thirty-eight.

PAY TRIBUTE TO CRICKETER

J. "Dad" Wenman Honored By Fellow Players at Association Meeting

Cricketers of Victoria, at their annual meeting yesterday evening, paid tribute to the activities of John "Dad" Wenman, veteran player and figure in the game here.

The association's recognition took the form of an address, on one side of which the names of prominent local cricketers were inscribed.

"To J. Wenman, Esq."
"We, the undersigned cricketers on Vancouver Island, desire to express our appreciation for the manner in which you have played the game during the many years we have had the great pleasure and privilege of being associated with you on the cricket playing field. It has been a great inspiration to us all, and we feel that we cannot let 1935 pass without asking you to accept this small token—what it lacks in intrinsic value is more than made up by our sincere regard for you, something that cannot die."
"We do not wish it to be understood the season just terminated shall be your last. Our hope is that you will long be spared to participate in the game of cricket—the greatest game on earth."
(Signed) President, Hubert Lethaby "Secretary, R. H. Moffatt."

Freddie Miller To Defend His Title

Boston, Oct. 22.—The first Boston featherweight title bout in forty years will be staged in Boston Garden to-night when champion Freddie Miller clashes with Vernon Cormier, Worcester.

These much-traveled battlers are down for the fifteen-round bout. Miller, who has led his division since 1933, appeared to have trouble making the 126-pound limit as he finished training for his fifteenth title defence. Cormier was reported to be down to the required weight.

A workout of the Bays-Wanderers rugby fifteen will be held this evening at Oak Bay Park at 7:30 o'clock. All members of the squad are requested to be on hand.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Eugene V. Debs, foremost American Socialist leader of his time, and five-time candidate for the Presidency of the United States, conducted his last campaign behind the bars of the Federal Penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kansas, serving sentence there for wartime violation of the Espionage Act because of his pacifist activities. Debs was the Socialist nominee in the presidential elections of 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1912. He declined the nomination in 1916, but after he was in prison he ran on the 1920 Socialist ticket. The prisoner-candidate polled more than 919,000 votes throughout the country.

Strange as it seems, the man who defeated Debs for the presidency, Warren G. Harding, ordered his release from the penitentiary with full pardon less than a year after he took office.

Under special conditions, and in close proximity to a transmitting device, the human arms may serve as a radio antennae, picking up enough electrical energy from the air to light an electric light bulb. Experiments proving this have been conducted at Schenectady, N.Y. The arms are held in a loop, outstretched from the body and with an electric light bulb in the hands so that one hand forms one contact while the other completes the circuit. Energy transmitted from a loop antennae below the arms is picked up by the arms and carried through the bulb, causing it to light.

To-morrow: Poison Health.

Al Zimmerman Defeats Champ

Wrestlers to Show Friday

This week's professional wrestling card will be staged at the Tillamook gym, Broad Street, on Friday evening instead of Saturday, according to an announcement made yesterday by promoter Fred Richardson. The change has been made necessary owing to Seattle putting on its weekly bouts on Saturday evening. The card for Friday will be announced to-morrow.

Hoop Teams To Meet To-morrow

Three Basketball Games Billed For Evening at the High School

West Saanich Mercantiles, formerly West Road and winners of their first encounter with Lake Hill, will stack up against the Tillamooks, who lost to Hoyle-Brown in their initial match, in a senior B tussle, to feature the three-game card of the Victoria and District Basketball League at the High School gym to-morrow evening.

An interesting game should result when the Kinsman-Gillespie quintette meets the Aces in the intermediate A boys' division. Kinsman-Gillespie lost to the Island Tug Red-stacks in their first match, while Aces beat the Regents in their first encounter.

The opening tilt on the evening's card will bring together Units and Keweenaw, women's quintettes at 7:30 o'clock. Keweenaw won their first game from Brunettes, by a wide margin, while Units lost to the Pantormus.

WALLACE TO MEET GARCIA

Two Smart Welterweights in Ten-round Bout at Vancouver To-morrow

Vancouver, Oct. 22.—Celerino Garcia, Los Angeles Filipino, whose chief claim to boxing fame is a double knock-down scored recently over world champion Barney Ross, and Gordon Wallace, Vancouver's Canadian welterweight king, wound up training yesterday evening in preparation for their ten-round battle here to-morrow night.

The hard hitting Garcia worked three fast rounds with Eddie Ivory, Vancouver, using both hands to set the British Columbian back on his heels a half dozen times.

Wallace went through six rounds with a pair of local sparring partners with the same calm, unhurried style of fighting he uses in the ring.

To-day both principals were to taper off with light gym work. Garcia has practically been assured of another bout—a title one this time—with Ross, according to his manager, George Parnassus; but Wallace is also slated for a shot at the world title if he gets past the Los Angeles battler.

Tuffy Pierpont In Draw With Champ

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 22.—Tuffy Pierpont, rugged Oakland flyweight, sprung a big surprise here yesterday evening when he held Small Montana, Manila, claimant of the world championship, to a ten-round draw.

Pierpont, weighing one pound over the 112-pound class limit, relied on counter punching to give the Filipino a hard lacing in a sensational fight which saw both men scoring knockdowns. Montana weighed 109.

QUOITS TOURNEY
Members of the Victoria Quoits Club will hold a handicap competition at their new grounds, corner of Pandora Avenue and Blanshard Street, on Thursday, commencing at 10:30 o'clock. All quoits players are invited to take part in the tournament.

Portland Golfer in Great 3 and 2 Victory Over Paul Runyan to Reach Semi-finals of U.S. Pro Golfers' Championship; Armour, Revolta and Watrous Win

Oklahoma City, Oct. 22.—A straight-shooting westerner, Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., sent Paul Runyan's professional golf association crown spinning from his head yesterday, and to-day he joined Tommy Armour, Al Watrous and Johnny Revolta in the semi-final scramble for it.

The White Plains, N.Y., title defender was blasted out of the picture by the slight blond Zimmerman's sub-par streak in the afternoon, yielding 3 and 2.

Revolta, the Milwaukee contender, who was Zimmerman's opponent to-day, ousted Eddie Schultz, Troy, N.Y., 4 and 2, by clicking off the last sixteen holes in par fashion.

Armour supplied the dramatics—emerging from a disastrous morning round to pull even with Ed Dudley, Bala, Pa., at the end of thirty-six holes and paring the thirty-ninth to win 1 up.

His semi-final hurdle to-day was Watrous, the gum-chewing Birmingham, Mich., player, who finished 1 up over Horton Smith in the face of a late rally by the Oak Park, Ill., ace.

GREAT COMEBACK
A gallery of approximately 3,000 quickly sensed the drama of the silver-haired Armour's struggle to redeem himself after a shoddy, futile morning round that required seventy-nine strokes.

In the afternoon, Armour found himself deadlocked with Dudley by virtue of a five on the thirty-sixth green as Dudley was getting his par four.

Both shot for birdies on the thirty-seventh, missing by inches and halving in par fours. The thirty-eighth was another half in par.

On the thirty-ninth, a 390-yard par four, Dudley was in the rough off the tee. He shanked his shot coming out and took four to get on the green as the black Scot was well on with his second. Dudley missed the cup with his fifth shot. Armour's five was inches from the hole and Duffy, then, under the hole, the Haggard, and the Sarasones and the Shutes as also-rans.

Dudley carded a 75 for his morning round and a 74 for the first eighteen yesterday afternoon.

Zimmerman, a cautious marksman who tries to make each shot a masterpiece, outdistanced Runyan, whose forte is steadiness.

The twenty-seven-year-old westerner virtually had been overlooked, despite the fact he was one under par for his matches until yesterday.

CREDIT WORK IS OUTLINED

Desirability of Efficient Association Outlined to Credit Grantors

The importance of credit, on the basis of which 40 per cent of the sales in Canada were made, and the equal importance of having an efficient association governing that service was stressed by G. A. A. Hebdon in an address to the Credit Grantors' Association in Spencer's dining-room today.

Mr. Hebdon spoke glowingly of the development of the local association and the excellent service it was rendering not only to the selling interests, but also to the buying public.

Simple forms, which accounted only for wholesale costs, sales expenditures and profits, no longer were sufficient to carry on business, Mr. Hebdon said.

Credit was becoming an increasing requisite in the operation of business, he stated.

Throughout Canada the ratio had been set at 40 per cent for credit sales and 60 per cent cash.

IN VICTORIA

Turning to Victoria he stated credit sales in Victoria during 1930 amounted to approximately $10,843,000.

The credit system was not an unmitigated blessing, Mr. Hebdon stated. Buyers could bring in abuses through ignorance or design, while the seller could oversell his client through various credit practices.

Unwise credit practice was estimated to be the cause of 5 per cent of business failures, he added.

GROWTH OF ASSOCIATIONS

Mr. Hebdon outlined the growth of credit organizations throughout the world. He drew attention to the comparative similarity in group action along credit lines, showing how certain difficulties were virtually universal. For that reason it was desirable to have co-operation between various credit groups. In some detail he referred to the various standard features in virtually all credit sales systems.

CONTRACT SALES

Mr. Hebdon proceeded with a description of contract sales, before turning his attention to the educational work being done in the credit field.

Credit required confidence. It depended to a great extent on honesty and promptness, he noted.

He touched upon pool accounts which had assisted many individuals who had been overtaken by a major calamity.

There was room for pride in Victoria's progress in the credit granting field. Quoting from the Canada Year Book, he stated Victoria could assume the average sales per family in Victoria at about $1,600. On a sales the figure illustrated the desirability of a sound credit system.

PRIZE FOR SECRETARY

Mr. Hebdon lauded Harry Dawson, secretary of the association, for his successful work in raising the standard of credit granting in this year.

He referred to the district convention which would bring representatives of the northwest here next year.

The fact Victoria had been chosen for the convention, in which local officers would take a leading part, spoke volumes for the esteem in which this city's association was held, Mr. Hebdon concluded.

POULTRY TESTS ARE ARRANGED

Department of Agriculture Announces Plan to Assist B.C. Breeders

Arrangements for blood-testing British Columbia poultry flocks, from which hatching eggs or baby chicks are intended for interprovincial shipment in western Canada, were announced today by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

Provincial inspectors, he said, will inspect all flocks entered and will supervise the taking of blood specimens. The actual tests of blood will be made by a federal official working at the University of British Columbia. Two cents will be charged for each specimen tested.

Under federal regulations all flocks from which chicks are to be shipped into areas where similar testing is in vogue, must be tested.

The Department of Agriculture, said the minister, would immediately issue forms and lists of regulations to all poultry breeders wishing to bring their flocks under test.

Dr. MacDonald indicated this plan had been worked out to assist the poultry breeders in meeting the Dominion regulations.

Last year poultry breeders raised a storm of protest when testing was made compulsory at a charge and they considered excessive and it is hoped the new scheme will overcome these objections.

The weekly card party of the Victoria West Liberal Social Club will be held this evening in the clubrooms, 414 Skinner Street.

Dissatisfaction over the ruling of the parks committee against the removal of trees on Elford Street was expressed by A. H. Lund in a letter written on behalf of home-owners there and received at the City Hall.

The residents of the street, who petitioned 100 per cent for the removal of certain scrub oak for better fighting facilities on the street, were disappointed over the board's decision against the destruction of boulevard growth. Before asking for reconsideration of the question, the letter stated: "I would like to ask, do the petitioners reside on this street, or do the parks committee?"

Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, will be observed as a public holiday at the Post Office. There will be no letter carrier or rural mail deliveries. The wickets will be closed all day.

From present indications it is expected that there will be more entries in 1936 than ever before.

Mr. Justice Fisher of the Supreme Court has approved the application for leave to examine by commission Kenneth Hanna in Kalamazoo, Michigan, in connection with the action of Maria Romano against John Maggiora, which has for some time been in the courts here and in Seattle.

In the Seattle court, she had won a judgment for $3,212 against Mr. Maggiora, who, it was claimed, had not been present at the trial. Mr. Justice Robertson recently held there was room for action in the B.C. court.

H. W. R. Moore, counsel for the plaintiff, made the application for the examination of Mr. Hanna. E. V. Finland said he would appeal against the decision and asked for $200 security for costs from the other side, which was granted by the judge.

Sees Prisoners As College Men

Victims of Circumstance, Says Dr. Alexander Irvine of Type of Men He Found in New Westminster Penitentiary

"They're criminals of circumstances. If they had been groomed and shaved, I should have taken them for college men," said Dr. Alexander Irvine, of New York, who has spent his life fighting for the under dog. In an interview with The Times today.

Dr. Irvine spoke of his recent visit to the penitentiary at New Westminster, where he addressed the prisoners and was rousing cheered as he departed from the prison quarters.

The Irish author, who up to the age of eighteen, could not read or write, and now is one of the cleverest orators and thinkers of the day, came to this country from Hollywood, Cal., to give a series of lectures at the invitation of the United Church of Canada, and over the week-end has been speaking before large audiences in Victoria.

This evening at 8 o'clock, Dr. Irvine will speak on prison reform before the John Howard Society at the Memorial Hall.

DEPRESSION RESPONSIBLE

"The depression is responsible for the making of criminals," continued Dr. Irvine in explaining in general what he termed the "great tragedy of today."

He asserted that the youth of today did not possess criminal tendencies.

"It was the aftermath of the world war, which broke up the home ties and forced men to become wild. After all, they were human and even the most hardened, he said, responded to the human touch.

Without work, and thrown upon their own resources, these men easily became the victims of crime.

He spoke of the nondescript men of the camps in California, men who lived from hand to mouth, and to receive a war term, "scrounged" for their existence.

"Give these men employment, and crime will be tremendously diminished," he said.

Dr. Irvine, champion of the down-trodden and oppressed, is opposed to Communism, but because his heart is with the worker, his sympathies are with them.

"When they are beaten unjustly, I will go with them," he said in telling of the manner in which the workers were being ground underfoot by the capitalist class.

"You can't suppress liberty. You can't suppress ideas," he said, adding that the police had increased Communism in California 100 per cent by suppression.

DRIVEN TO DESPERATION

"They are driving the working class to desperation," he said, predicting civil war in California if things were not changed.

Dr. Irvine is a friend of Upton Sinclair, novelist, and defeated candidate for the governorship of California, who advocated "production for use"—putting the idle factories into operation to provide work for the unemployed.

"Curiously enough, this is what is now being done by Governor Merriam in California state, showing the soundness of Mr. Sinclair's theories," said Dr. Irvine.

WAS KIDNAPPED

In his efforts on behalf of the workers, Dr. Irvine was kidnapped on Palm Sunday of last year, taken for a ride and left to perish in the Colorado desert, on the Mexican border, he revealed.

"I was on my way to preside at a labor meeting at Calexico, when I was kidnapped by vigilantes, lick-spittles of the capitalists, and left on the desert to die," he said. "But for the miraculous fact that a man driving a truck passed by and picked me up, the probability is that I should have died. I consider it an act of God."

Dr. Irvine considers the late Governor Huey Long of Louisiana, who was assassinated at Baton Rouge, was a modern-day man in the history of the world.

"He created a modern state out of medieval Louisiana in about fifteen years—a miraculous accomplishment," said Dr. Irvine.

"He was a dictator, yes, but a dictator to gardeners and corporations—and thank God for such a dictator," said Dr. Irvine.

Dr. Irvine is a native of Antrim, Ireland, was raised in very poor circumstances, and secured his education while serving as a marine on H.M.S. Alexandria, then flagship of the British Mediterranean fleet.

The memory of his mother, who inspired him to write "My Lady of the Chimney Corner," has been honored by Antrim, who have made a national museum of her home and Dr. Irvine's birthplace.

Dr. Irvine served in the Sudan War of 1894, and suffered sunstroke on the Ethiopian border, where it was 130 in the shade.

"We lost one out of three men in the Sudan desert, and it was cool there compared to Ethiopia, now being invaded by the Italians," he said.

ITALY FACES REVOLT

Dr. Irvine, speaking of the Ethiopian campaign, said he did not think the war could continue beyond the end of the year.

He said there was a revolt against the rule of Mussolini in Italy, and that the Ethiopian war was precipitated by Il Duce in an effort to cement the nation.

"There's a seething cauldron in Italy that Mussolini cannot suppress," he said. "But Mussolini is no fool and he cannot afford to disturb the British empire bordering on the Mediterranean."

"Italy cannot survive the enforcement of the sanctions of the League of Nations, and the climate of Ethiopia is murderous," said Dr. Irvine.

MAN IS KILLED AT SIGNAL HILL

William Blakey Believed to Have Been Hit By Street Car at Esquimalt

William Blakey, seventy-four, 1479 Fort Street, was instantly killed in an accident on Signal Hill, Esquimalt, yesterday evening, when he is believed to have been struck by a street car. While there were no eyewitnesses to the accident Esquimalt police stated evidence indicated death had resulted from a collision with the street car.

The car was proceeding east, just after leaving the terminus, and was proceeding slowly up the grade. Conductor Harry Hall was at the controls and reported to police he felt a slight jar. He stopped the car and investigated. He found Mr. Blakey lying parallel to the tracks.

Two passengers on the car reported they had seen Mr. Blakey walking across the street as it was passing.

Mr. Blakey had been in ill health for some time. It was customary for him to take short walks but he was absent from home for considerable time yesterday which caused relatives to notify police at 7 o'clock that he was missing. He was sightless in one eye, police were told.

The inquest will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the Sands Funeral Chapel.

Mr. Blakey was born in Lincoln, England, and had been a resident of Victoria for sixteen years. He is survived by his widow, three sons and four daughters in Victoria, and one daughter in Maine, U.S.A.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Tell Plans For Ottawa Visit

Premier and Finance Minister Discuss Impending Conference This Week

On two sides this week the British Columbia Government proposed to tell the people of the province what it is aiming at and what it hopes for: the Dominion-Provincial conference at Ottawa.

This evening over radio stations CPCT in Victoria, CKWX in Vancouver and affiliated network stations, Premier Pattullo will give a half-hour broadcast starting at 7 o'clock.

He will, it is understood, summarize the main reasons for B.C.'s proposed representation to the conference.

The premier is also expected to discuss the two impending provincial elections.

In Vancouver to-morrow Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will speak to the Board of Trade in one of his rare public addresses. He will talk upon the financial position of British Columbia within Confederation.

It is no secret that the provincial government is planning its greatest hopes at the initial gathering of the conference next month on assurance of plans for refunding debt at lower interest and should an outstanding be reached which will enable the province to go ahead with its plan either by federal co-operation or direct assistance it will be regarded as a major achievement.

Immediate solution of the many conflicting problems affecting the Dominion and the provinces is not anticipated. A financial programme which will enable the provincial government to work out its own problems is seen as a pressing need, however.

FORCED TO CANCEL TRIP

The early date of the conference has forced Premier Pattullo to cancel an intended trip through the interior ridings which he had planned to start this week. He will have no opportunity to visit this section of the province until next summer.

Several other members of the cabinet are completing their outside engagements while decks are being cleared for the Ottawa Mission. Attorney-general, Stoeck, who is certain to be one of the delegates, is still in Vancouver prosecuting the Indian murder trial.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, and Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, will both be on the mainland for the rest of this week attending demonstrations in connection with the lumbermen's conference.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO LATE MEMBER

Tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Allan Fraser was paid by members of the Credit Grantors' Association of Victoria at its luncheon in Spencer's dining-room today.

G. E. MacDonald spoke of the association's loss in Dr. Fraser's untimely death, quoting "Greater love hath no man than this, that he layeth down his life for a friend."

The membership stood in silent tribute to the memory of their late fellow member.

Owing to pressure of business, there will be no public meeting of the Provincial Social Credit League this evening. Members of the executive will meet to-night at 8 o'clock at 1354 Begbie Street.

Fellowship Discusses Hamper Fund and Christmas Banquet at Meeting

Two papers on subjects connected with Dickens and his works were heard last night by the Victoria Dickens Fellowship at its monthly meeting in the Women's Institute Hall, Fort Street.

A summary of the reflections of Cecil Roberts, English author, on Charles Dickens and his characters, and a description of some sections of Dickens's works was offered by Major R. A. Donald.

A. W. Arnup, vice-president of the fellowship, described some of the street characters and street cries of old London made familiar through the works of Dickens. The characters introduced to members by H. L. Penhsham, president of the local group, Miss Williamson said a few words on the subject of the work being done by the body to which she belongs.

Arrangements for the fellowship's annual Christmas hamper fund and Christmas banquet at Spencer's Cafe were discussed, and Mrs. Joan Kennedy, secretary, was appointed to supervise the preparations.

BRIEF CEREMONY IS IMPRESSIVE
Army and Navy Officers and Civic Officials in Trafalgar Day Observation

Naval and military officers and civic officials took part yesterday in a short but impressive ceremony on Parliament Square, when the white ensign of the Royal Navy and Nelson's historic signal, "England expects every man will do his duty," were hoisted on the great flagstaff in observation of Trafalgar Day.

Brigadier D. J. MacDonald, D.S.O., officer commanding Military District No. 11, Commander G. C. Jones, senior naval officer in charge of the Esquimalt station; Lieut.-Col. C. B. Russell and officers of the Navy League and other patriotic bodies, and Alderman J. D. Hunter took part in the ceremony.

A company from the Rainbow Sea Cadets and Boy Scouts and Wolf Cub troops were drawn up facing the flagstaff. When Nelson's signal was run up, a bugler sounded the Last Post, and a minute's silence was observed.

Wreaths were laid at the foot of the staff by the representatives of the army, navy, city and patriotic bodies, and the sea cadets and scouts were played off by the Rainbow Sea Cadets band.

ONE MORE EGG
With one more day to go the Rhode Island Red hen owned by J. Burgess of Qualicum Beach has laid a total of 325 eggs in the fifty-one weeks ending to-morrow, it was announced at the Sidney Experimental Farm today.

The previous Canadian record was 310 eggs and the world's mark is 334 for the contest year of fifty-one weeks.

Professor E. M. Straight, director of the farm, stated the bird would be kept until the end of October. It did not lay Monday but laid early to-day and is expected to lay another tomorrow.

TAUBER SINGS AT DOMINION

Well-known Singer Has Leading Role in "Heart's Desire" Opening To-day

Richard Tauber had a magnificent reputation as a tenor and his concert all over the country were packed and his recording discs sold by the thousands. Yet when he appeared in "Blossom Time," his first English film, he was acclaimed overnight as one of the foremost singing film stars in the world. The film broke records, not only in London, but all over the country and throughout the world wherever it has been shown.

The readers of the Film Weekly, one of the most influential and popular fan journals printed in England, adjudged it to be in their opinion the most popular British film of the year.

Tauber's latest film, "Heart's Desire," showing to-day at the Dominion, has a much more powerful and human story than "Blossom Time," and has a modern background with modern thought and feeling.

Tauber plays the role of Josef Steidler, romantic Viennese singer who is persecuted against his will to come to London and sing in a new opera.

Tauber is called upon to do some strong emotional acting in "Heart's Desire," at which he proves himself expert. His three leading ladies in the picture are Leonora Corbett, Kathleen Kelly and Diana Napier.

Also being shown is Gene Stratton-Porter's "Freckles," starring Tom Brown and Carol Stone.

Not since the sensational "One Night of Love" has any picture created such an anticipatory flurry of excitement among motion picture fans and music lovers as the new Jesse L. Lasky production, "Here's to Romance," which will open at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

Devotees of both arts are looking forward to the much-heralded motion picture debut of Nino Martini, whose spectacular career in opera and radio may soon be matched by his motion picture fame.

Fresh from a concert tour in which he made eighty-five consecutive appearances, Martini began work on this picture, which features him with Genevieve Tobin, Anita Louise and Mm. Schumann-Heink, in a touching romantic comedy based on the private life and times of an opera star.

The second feature stars Warner Oland in "Charlie Chan in Shanghai."

Finlay Currie, who plays the role of an American theatrical producer in British "Lion's light comedy, "Gay Love," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre, is, oddly enough, born in Australia of Scottish parentage.

Currie's is a curious collection of first editions, and is, perhaps, the greatest book lover in British films. One day, during the filming of "Gay Love," he came into the studio beaming with satisfaction. Everyone thought he had come into a fortune or had won some luck in the Irish Sweep. But it appeared that on the previous day Mr. Currie had gone rummaging round the bookstalls of the Caledonian Market and there had picked up a first edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for four cents.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

A Japanese heroine in Paris gowns is played by Merle Oberon in "Thunder in the East," the Leon Garganoff production formerly titled "The Battle," which comes to the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

Japan, with its dainty houses and pretty gardens, was found to be a perfect setting for the delicately Oriental cast of Merle's beauty and this role has been hailed as the finest of her career.

Charles Boyer plays the patriotic naval commander husband who, in order to gain the secrets of British naval superiority, subtly manoeuvres his bride into the arms of a dashing young English officer, played by John Loder.

LITTLE ORPHEUM THEATRE

Will Rogers and Edward O'Fearn, assistant to John Ford, who directed Will in "Judge Priest," now at the Orpheum Theatre, struck a compromise during the filming of the picture. O'Fearn agreed to call Rogers to the studio at exactly the time he was needed to start his day's work, instead of an hour or two earlier. In return Rogers agreed to come at the time he was called. Rogers did not mind early calls, but he could not stand waiting.

RETIREES FROM SERVICE

Vancouver, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press)—After nearly thirty years in the trust inspection service in British Columbia, R. G. L. Clarke, Dominion chief in Vancouver, has retired under the age limit laid down under the Civil Service Act. He came here in 1899 and entered the inspection department in 1904.

The present trouble now developing in North China with Japan is another case in point. The League of Nations will let this go on till another war crisis has developed, then they will apply the boycott against Japan, which may prove useless.

The League of Nations should not let this crisis develop, but immediately declare a protectorate over that part of China involved; and establish a stable government, with protection for all peoples alike, backed by the whole might and power of world nations and fighting strength. Japan would immediately assume a more peaceful attitude, knowing that whatever the causes of dispute, both sides would have just treatment, under the imperial decrees of a League of Nations protectorate government.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX--I am twenty-four and have been married almost a year. Before I was married I did stenographic work and liked it very much, but gave up my position when I married. I have a fine husband whom I love and who is good to me.

I have a nice home, but at times I get very restless. Domesticity gets monotonous and I become very depressed. I feel pinned down and that there is not enough excitement in keeping house or cooking to keep me interested. Since I have been married I have taken several temporary positions and as soon as I did I lost the depressed and restless feeling, but when I did, I couldn't keep up my housework and we had to eat out. My husband thinks it makes a happier marriage if the wife stays at home. Perhaps it does, but I don't know anything about cooking or domestic work and pine for my old job. What can I do to get over this restless feeling and find life interesting again?

PUZZLED.

Answer: Have a baby. Nature supplies the remedy for idle women. When you have a youngster to love and pet, feed and bathe and dress, and who will keep you on the jump every minute of the day and half the night, you will not complain that time hangs heavy on your hands, or that you are bored, because you have nothing exciting and interesting to do.

Your reaction to your present situation is perfectly natural. Every business woman who gives up her job and gets married feels this same way at first. She has been used to an ordered life in which every minute had its scheduled task. In her own little new home her time is her own. Nothing presses. She can do as she pleases with her time. She has been accustomed to working in a group, to the excitement of people coming and going, to the thrill of new projects being launched, new campaigns put through. Perhaps she has been the right hand of her boss, who controlled great enterprises. Now she helps decide no more important question than whether there shall be roast beef or chops for dinner. Perhaps she has been a buyer who spent thousands of dollars in a single transaction. Now she buys ten cents worth of stew meat and half an apple pie.

One successful business woman who had been the brains of a department in a large store and who gave up her position to go domestic when she married, explained the situation by saying to me: "I put me to take care of a six-room apartment, furnished with every modern gadget for labor saving, is like putting a 1000-horsepower engine to lift a one-horsepower weight. It is a waste of energy. I have been taught system and efficiency. I do all my work in an hour and then I do not know what to do with my time."

In your particular case, and while you are waiting for the baby to solve your problem for you, I urge you to try to regard home-making as a profession and not as a chore. If you do, you will find that housework is just as interesting and exciting as office work and that you can get just as big a kick out of it.

It is because most women only put their backs and not their brains nor their hearts into housework that they find it drudgery. They never learn how to cook, so they never find out that it takes skill and artistry and poetry and imagination to make a dish that delights the palate and the eye and the stomach. They never learn how to buy so as to get the most out of a dollar, or run a house on a budget, so they never find out that a housewife needs to be as good a judge of commodities as any purchasing agent and as much of a financier as any banker.

They never think of making a home that is a place of rest for a tired man to come to of an evening and for children to grow up in in an atmosphere of peace and comfort and order and love, as the greatest work that any woman can ever set her hand to. And so they miss the real reward of their labor.

Believe me, my dear, if you will go at your housekeeping in the right spirit, you will find it one of the most interesting and absorbing of occupations, and if you make a success of it you will have acquired one of the most profitable professions that any woman can follow if she needs to make her living.

And your husband is right when he says that it makes for the happiness of marriage for the wife to stay in the home. For the very good reason that no woman can be a competent housewife and a competent business woman at the same time. Either she takes all she has.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX--Is it true that 85 per cent of married men are unfaithful to their wives? If so, why do the wives stand for it? Is it true that most wives are suspicious of their husbands? Is it true that 85 per cent of the wives are unfaithful to their husbands? Does a man lose his respect for his wife if she comes to his aid financially and if she waits on him a great deal?

WONDERING.

Answer: I am afraid you will have to keep wondering as to the number of husbands and wives who are philanderers, since there are no statistics on this subject. I can hardly believe, however, that the majority of married people are unfaithful to their mates. For most of the husbands and wives we know give no evidence that they are treading the primrose path and conducting illicit love affairs.

Certainly Mr. Jones and Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith, who live next door to us or across the street and whose comings and goings are so punctual that you could start the clock by them, have no earmarks of being Don Juans or Casanovas. We see them watering the grass and trimming the roses and spending their evenings by their own firesides, or going out in the family car with their wives and children, and if they are roaming it is hard to figure out when they do it, or how they finance it, since stolen kisses come high and they have about all they can do to support virtuous domesticity.

Nor as we observe fat, middle-aged Medesians Jones and Brown and Smith can we picture them as inclining romantic ardors in the breast of any man. Still less can we believe that instead of going to market, as they appear to be, that they are stealing away to a hidden-loverland.

No. Human nature being what it is, there are no doubt many husbands and wives who are unfaithful to each other, but to accuse 85 per cent of the married people of being shirks and sirens is to unduly flatter them.

The reason that so many wives put up with their husband's sidestepping is obvious. Many of them have to. Husband is the meat ticket. Without him they and their children would be homeless and foodless. They shut their eyes to their husband's flirtations for the sake of safety. Many other wives put up with their husband's unfaithfulness because they love well enough to forgive. They have no lives outside of their husbands and they would rather eat the crumbs of affection that they carelessly bestow upon them than starve for love away from them.

No man loses his respect for his wife if she helps him financially, or if she waits on him a great deal. On the contrary, he likes it. And occasionally he is grateful to her for it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily and the Big Cat

By HOWARD R. GARS

When Uncle Wiggily was gathering catnip leaves for Tommie, Joie and Kitten, the sick pussy cats, as I told you last night, all of a sudden, as you may remember, he heard a growling voice saying it had a bad cold--enough of what Uncle Wiggily didn't know.

But when he had looked over the tops of the bushes whence came the voice, then Mr. Longears understood. He saw looking at him a big cat, five times as large as Tommie, Joie or Kitten. This cat had whiskers as long as his own, but it had something else--it had little tufts or tassels on its ears.

Then, as he looked farther, Uncle Wiggily saw that this big cat had a very little tail cut short--a bobbed tail.

"Oh, ho!" thought Uncle Wiggily. It's the Bob Cat, I wonder what he wants? For the Bob Cat, or Lynx as he is sometimes called, is a Bad Chap, especially for rabbit gentlemen.

Mr. Longears wasn't long in finding out what the Bob Cat wanted. The Bad Chap with the silly little tail, sneaked out of the bushes and slinking close to the bunny asked:

"What did you mean when you said a little while ago that you had enough? What were you speaking about?"

"Catnip," said Uncle Wiggily. "I came here to gather some catnip leaves to cure Joie, Tommie and Kitten the fever."

"Oh, yum," said the Bob Cat. "Did you know what I was speaking about when I said I had a bad cold?"

"I think I can guess," said Uncle Wiggily. "You mean that you want some catnip leaves to cure your cold?"

"That's exactly what I mean," snarled the Bob Cat. "Somewhere or other, Uncle Wiggily, I have to get enough of you. It's hard work to catch you, but I have you now and I'm going to nibble you."

"Oh, please don't nibble the bunny. Yes, I shall. That's why I came here. Now you can throw away all the catnip leaves you gathered. You'll never take them to the pussy children. Throw them away!"

GULF ISLANDS FERRY CO. LIMITED

On Last Trip of Season to New York, Ss. Normandie Will This Evening Receive Hales Trophy, Denoting Blue Ribbon of Atlantic; Rex Formerly Held It

New York, Oct. 22.—Representing the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, the Harold Kates Hales Trophy for the speed record on ocean crossings, will be turned over by the Rex of the Italian Line, previous record holder, to the French Line flagship Normandie, at a ceremony to be held on board the Normandie this evening in New York harbor.

To be present at this occasion, Mr. Hales, the donor of the trophy, who is a member of the British Parliament for Ealing, Middlesex, arrived here on the Normandie yesterday with Pierre de Malgouyres, general manager of the French Line for the British Isles, and several members of the committee which governs the awarding of the trophy.

Although the Italian line is entitled to retain the trophy until the latter part of next month, the directors of the company in Genoa graciously offered to relinquish it ahead of time so the presentation may be made to the Normandie during her present stay in port, her last until the early part of 1936.

TO STAY ON SHIP
Arnoldo Palanca, general representative of the Italian Line in New York, will turn the trophy back to the Hon. Mr. Hales, who will then present it to Henri Morin de Lincelles, general manager of the French Line for the United States and Canada, who will in turn, place it in the keeping of Captain Rena Pignat, commander of the Normandie.

The crossing which gave the Normandie the title to the trophy was her maiden voyage from Havre to New York (May 29 to June 3, 1935), during which she made the 2,971 nautical miles from Bishop's Rock to Ambrose Light in four days three hours thirteen minutes and thirty-eight seconds, at an average speed of 29.94 knots.

On the return half of her maiden voyage (June 7 to 12) the Normandie covered 3,015 nautical miles between Ambrose Light and Bishop's Rock in four days three hours and twenty-five minutes at an average speed of 30.31 knots.

The Hales Trophy is about 3 1/2 feet tall, is of solid silver, onyx and gold, and represents the globe being upheld by three figures of Victory, Neptune and Amphitrite. Topping the globe is a figure of Speed overcoming another representing the Force of the Atlantic.

WORK SHIPS UNDER GUARD

Machine Guns Used By Guards; Independent Labor Hired to Unload Ships

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 22.—The strike-closed port of Lake Charles was opened for business yesterday under the bustling machine guns of seventy-five special guards.

Moving into the docks early yesterday the guards took by surprise pickets of the International Longshoremen's Association who have blocked shipping at the port for ten days in the Gulf Coast strike. There was no disturbance.

A few minutes later automobiles and trucks loaded with Louisiana Longshoremen's Association workers, independent labor, entered the docks and began to handle ships' cargo.

Two vessels were in port awaiting loading, the Swedish Hedrun, which had been lying idle six days, and the Bull freighter Edith.

Officials of the Louisiana Longshoremen's Association said "no trouble was expected."

Elsewhere along the front of the striking I.L.A. district one major outbreak was reported. At Port Arthur, Texas, a striking longshoreman, identified as Etienne Christ, thirty-four, was shot to death after an apparent beating.

This made two fatalities since the Gulf ports strike was called October 1 by W. P. Ryan, I.L.A. head in New York. The other fatality was a New Orleans negro.

Strike orders have involved the ports of the Gulf Coast stretching from Pensacola, Fla., through Texas to the Mexican border.

Ships have been loaded in most of the ports under local police protection and the I.L.A. leaders said they would count on a boycott of the ships in other parts to make their strike effective.

FISH TREATY IS NECESSARY

Official Believes Salmon Can Be Saved Only By Ratification of Treaty

Seattle, Oct. 21.—The future of the salmon in the Pacific Northwest, where dams are being flung across important spawning rivers, is a problem engaging the attention of experts, commercial fishermen and sportsmen.

Men engaged in studying the fish have yet arrived at no unanimous conclusion.

Miller Freeman, chairman of the Fisheries Division of the Washington State Planning Council, fearing the extinction of sockeye salmon in the Fraser River or western Canada, believes the fish can be saved only by ratification of the pending international treaty between the United States and Canada.

"In 1913 the salmon pack on both sides of the international line totaled 2,461,488 cases," Freeman said. "This year it ran only 157,000 cases."

Official closing date for the season has been set for December 31, 1935, and all entries are to be submitted to Contest Director, Institute of Foreign Travel, 80 Broad Street, New York, N.Y., where five international members of the Art Directors' Club will serve as the jury of award. They are: Charles T. Colner, Byron Mueser, Gordon Aymar, Edward F. Molyneux and Edwin George.

Over twenty steamship companies of the two countries are co-operating with the sponsors of the contest, the winner of which will be announced in the spring. A second and third prize of $300 and $100 will also be given.

Here is shown the freighter San Julian at Jersey City, as giant cranes fill its holds with scrap metal destined for Italy. Scrap metal can be used for the manufacture of armaments.

EUROPE TRIP TO BE PRIZE

Steamship Companies Announce Poster Competition; to Close at End of Year

Open to every artist in Canada and the United States, with a grand prize of a free return trip to Europe on the winners' own choice of liner, or $500 cash, is the latest general contest to be made known to-day by the Institute of Foreign Travel in New York, in which all Canadian steamship companies are assisting.

Purely a poster contest, the affair is attracting the attention of school teachers and regular artists, all competing on the same footing. Expressly in an effort to stimulate foreign travel during next year, posters must be built around the phrase, "See Europe Next," and be capable of lithographic reproduction.

Not confined to any one steamship company, the posters must be designed for general European travel from Canada and the United States, the chief rule as indicated by the Foreign Travel Institute being: "Copy must be in full color, having due regard to the requirements of lithographic reproduction, and must be to scale of poster planned, namely, an inside margin of twenty-three inches by thirty-five inches."

World of this contest has just been received by J. J. Forster, steamship general passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific, who advises that further information required by participants can be obtained from his office.

Official closing date for the contest has been set for December 31, 1935, and all entries are to be submitted to Contest Director, Institute of Foreign Travel, 80 Broad Street, New York, N.Y., where five international members of the Art Directors' Club will serve as the jury of award. ## SHIP OUTRODE BIG TYPHOON

Vancouver, Oct. 22.—Tossed about in a rolling sea in a typhoon off the coast of Formosa during the latter part of July was the feature of an interesting cruise of the round-the-world Dutch motorship Madelon of the Silver-Line-Pacific line which berthed at Ballantyne Pier yesterday.

The motorship outrode the storm and was able to proceed with little delay and scarcely any damage. A tremendous wave which refused to function properly delayed the vessel six weeks in San Francisco while a new one was sent from Holland, Capt. J. Drent reported. The vessel brought varied tropical cargo, including coconuts, rubber, coffee, and other freight for Europe. She will sail Thursday with a cargo of lumber for South African ports.

A delay in schedule of a couple of days proved fortunate for the steamship Swainby which docked here over the week-end to the Anglo-Canadian Shipping Co. Ltd. As a result of the delay she missed the hurricane which swept the Florida Coast a month ago. She arrived here from Cardiff in Ballant and will load a cargo of wheat and lumber for United Kingdom ports.

Inbound from the United Kingdom, via the Panama Canal, California ports and Seattle, the Furness motorship Pacific Ranger will reach the Kithier piers at 6 o'clock this evening. She is bringing passengers and cargo and will remain here until midnight before continuing her voyage to Vancouver.

LOGGERS WILL HOLD MEETING

Over 500 From Northwest Will Hold Congress in Vancouver

Vancouver, Oct. 22.—More than 500 loggers from British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, California and other forest states of Western North America will assemble here to-morrow for the convention of the Pacific Logging Congress, to be presided over by the president, H. J. Filberg of Comox, B.C.

Some of the leading forestry experts of America will attend to give their views on the future of timber in the world's commerce, on conservation of forests, on the most scientific methods of reaping timber crops, on replanting and reproduction of forests and on markets for timber products.

The Congress and the public will also be given an opportunity of seeing modern logging equipment at work on a timber site near Port Haney, B.C. A crew of expert loggers will show how timber is taken out of the woods.

The equipment we have brought together for this purpose could not be seen in any logging camp on the Pacific Coast," Mr. Filberg said.

WHALE KILLED BY COAST SHIP

Vancouver, Oct. 22.—Much to the delight of passengers, the Canadian National steamer Prince George had a school of whales for an escort en route north late last spring. In port to-day the ship reported another curious whale came up for closer inspection of the vessel off Ocean Falls.

The result was disastrous for the whale although no damage resulted to the vessel. It disappeared in the red-flecked wake.

Air Line Across the Pacific Starts Soon

Four Planes Will Be Ready For Route From San Francisco to China By November 1; Hopes Expressed For Atlantic Service

Washington, Oct. 22.—The Pan American Airways Company stepped forward yesterday with the only bid received by the Post Office Department for carrying air mail across the Pacific to China.

The bid, made after months of preparation and at a time when the company has an eye toward similar operations across the Atlantic to Europe, was for the maximum rates allowed under the law—$2 a mile for a load of 800 pounds and $1 a thousand miles for each additional pound.

A committee of cabinet officers will go over the bid, probably on Thursday, and the award or rejection will be made soon after. Most informed persons believed the bid would be accepted.

In receiving the bid, Postmaster-general Farley said: "It is my fond hope that it will be a very short time before we are opening bids on a transatlantic service. The inauguration of the transatlantic service will not only aid aviation on the western coast, but will prove a boon to domestic aviation throughout the country."

ISLANDS ON ROUTE
Pan American Airways has been working for months on a plan to establish an airline across the southern Atlantic. Negotiations are being made with the Imperial Airways of Great Britain and the Portuguese Government for landing facilities at British and Portuguese islands on the route.

The company has made studies of the possibilities of establishing a route across the north Atlantic also, but the plans in neither case have yet reached the stage at which airlines officials are willing to comment.

They are the establishment of foreign airlines was a tedious, give-and-take matter. Unlike steamship routes, if a country gives permission for planes to fly over its domain, it demands similar rights in exchange.

Competition of the airlines would have four planes ready for service across the Pacific by November 1, but did not expect a schedule to be approved before November 15.

The mail and passengers over the 8,000-mile route from San Francisco by way of Honolulu and Manila to Canton, the Post Office Department specified that planes should be able to carry six passengers and have fireproof mail compartments.
